On his mind an awful load,
Waiting, with an agile spring,
Onto door or roof to swing.

FULLBACK HELD PURSE SNATCHER

George Tucker Proved Football Tackling Ability.

HE DOWNED MAN QUICKLY

NEGRO WAS ABOUT TO MAKE HIS ESCAPE WHEN TACKLED.

He Grabbed at Woman's Purse, But Fled When She Screamed and Had Good Lead on His Pursuers.

George Tucker, full back of the Colonial Tigers, who captured a negro highwayman Monday by a stiff tackle, demonstrated that the football player is useful, if not ornamental.

Tucker's feat furnishes an argument in favor of the strenuous life of the football field that the anti-liniment and anti-splint element must concede.

It also opens up a suggestion to Chief of Police Kiely:

Why not put the local football players on the force as subcops, and let them tackle some of our elusive footpads?

Once in awhile they might get a touchdown on a Harry Longbaugh or kick a goal for a Laura Bullion.

The Colonial Tigers, made up of boys 15 and 17 years old, assume to be the champions of the West End in their class. They have won many victories.

George Tucker, as fullback, has done much toward saving the day for his eleven.

Tucker is recognized in the team as a clever fullback. As a tackler he is said to have no superior of his age. He lives at 3151 Brantner place and attends a business college at Grand avenue and Windsor place.

About 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, Tucker was standing on that corner with Tom Costello, left end, and Paul Algrave, quarterback. They were discussing a coming contest and Tucker was telling how he would stop a certain right tackle if he had a chance.

Just then a negro boy, 16 years old, a year older than Tucker, dashed by. He was going down Grand avenue like a streak. He held his head down like a bull and was a veritable battering ram in transit.

"Hi, there, kids" yelled a panting policeman at the corner of Finney and Grand avenues. "Stop that coon! Head 'im off! Catch 'im!"

Tucker Makes a Successful Tackle.

Algrave had a sore foot, but Costello and Tucker were fit. They lined up in front of the approaching negro.

"Look out, thah, white boys!" panted the negro, keeping his head down and not lessening his speed to meet the obstacles in his path.

Tucker and Costello braced themselves for a tackle. The negro ducked under Costello's arms and broke through.

He was behind the line and hitting a hot pace for the goal, with no interference, when Tucker, with surprising agility, made a swift turn on his heel and leaped in front of the batteringram.

"G'way, white boys!" puffed the negro; "Ah'll cut you' haht out; Ah will, sho'!"

But the fullback was on his quarry. In a jiffy he had the negro pinioned to the ground.

The victim struggled, but he could not break Tucker's hold. The football boy, with the long hair waving in the breeze, held his opponent until the officer arrived and placed him under arrest.

Tucker had made an important capture, but he did not know it.

The negro is Robert Taylor of 4342 Cottage avenue. He has only one eye, which gave him a peculiar aspect as he ran, for it caused him to hold his head to one side.

Taylor had attempted to rob a woman of her purse at the corner of Spring avenue and Windsor place. The woman screamed and the negro ran.

At the police station Taylor admitted that he had tried to take the purse. He said he and another negro were in the alley eating lunch. His companion saw a woman approaching with a purse in her hand. The other negro, he said, advised him to "swipe" it.

Taylor rushed out and made a "swipe," but the woman was on the lookout.

Her screams attracted attention, and Taylor was chased two blocks before he met the football player.

He had nearly a block lead on the officer and would have escaped but for the successful tackle.

"Pshaw," said young Tucker Tuesday morning, "that was dead easy. Why, I've made lots of harder tackles than that. It was just practice, that's all."

SAVED FROM THE GALLOWS

The Supreme Court Holds That Mrs. Nesnehener Was Wrongfully Convicted.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—By an opinion written by Judge Burgess, Alice Nesnehener of Hannibal, Mo., is saved from the gallows. She had been convicted and sentenced to death for poisoning her husband, and the Supreme Court holds there was no ground for her conviction.

The alleged motive for the crime was a small life insurance.

HER SKIRT WAS TOO SHORT

Miss Farley Could Not Get a Marriage License Because of Suspicion as to Her Age.

Robert F. Sharp and Miss Alice C. Farley missed getting a marriage license at Belleville Monday afternoon because Miss Farley's skirt was too short.

The brevity of her skirt discredited her claim that she was "over 18" and the license was refused.

Mr. Sharp and Miss Farley boarded an electric car at Collinsvilel and Missouri avenues in East St. Louis at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. When the car reached Bellevilel they walked all around the courthouse and finally entered the front door.

Mr. Sharp told Deputy County Clerk McConaughy that he was 21 and came from Riverton, Ill. A little later he raised his age to 24. When Mr. McConaughy asked Miss Farley how old she was she blithely answered: "Over 18." When he looked keenly at her she dropped her eyes and blushed. In a long skirt she would have passed for that age, but the skirt she wore did not reach her shoetops, and, although she said she would make affidavit to her age, the couple were told to make application at East St. Louis, where they claimed Miss Farley could be identified. She said she had been working in East St. Louis. She claimed she did not know anything about her parents.

The couple were seen Tuesday morning near the Relay Depot. They said they had not been to the office of Deputy Caughian to try to get a license. They admitted that they had eloped from Springfield. The girl said she had a figure 18 in her shoe, so that she could say with a clear conscience that she was over 18.

Mr. Sharp said he would buy the girl a long skirt and they would make another trial to get a license and if that failed they would "go back and face the music."

Miss Farley looks like a well-developed girl of 14 years. There is a suspicion that both of them live in East St. Louis.

MURDER DONE IN INSURANCE PLOT

Evidence That Rathbun Killed His Companion.

LURED HIM TO A HOTEL

STARTLING REVELATIONS IN A SCHEME OF FRAUD.

Police of Louisville Are Tracing the Identity of the Corpse Shipped From Jeffersonville to Little Rock.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 12.—The police believe that murder was done in the bungling plot conceived and carried out by Newell C. Rathbun to defraud a life insurance company of $4000.

Rathbun, who is under arrest here, confesses that he plotted to defraud the insurance company, but has not admitted the murder charge.

Rathbun confessed today that the man found dead in the Jeffersonville hotel was Charles Goodman, a tramp, from Evansville.

Goodman left the Salvation Army headquarters in Louisville Wednesday night, saying he was going to Indiana, and has never returned.

According to the police theory, Rathbun, after making up his mind to defraud the insurance company, coolly looked about for a victim.

He found Goodman, who was needy and fond of drink. Under some pretense, not now known, Rathbun induced Goodman to go with him to Jeffersonville and assume the name of Rathbun, while Rathbun changed his own name to Ten Eyck.

The two men went to Jeffersonville Wednesday, and in the evening crossed the river to Louisville. Here, according to this theory, Rathbun plied Goodman with drink and drugged his liquor with laudnum.

The two men crossed the river to Jeffersonville Wednesday night on the 11:30 boat. They were noticed by the employes of the boat, who say that the short man, who is supposed to have been Goodman, was very sleepy, and his companion had great difficulty in keeping him awake.

Taken to the Hotel to Die.

Rathbun managed to get his drugged companion into the hotel, where it is probable he gave him another dose of the poisonous drug.

He then put the papers, afterwards found on the corpse, in Goodman's pockets and calmly went to bed to await the action of the drug.

The proprietor of the hotel tells how Rathbun, whom he knew as Ten Eyck, arose Thursday morning and, while eating breakfats, stated that his companions, whom he called "Rathbun," was still asleep and did not want to be disturbed.

The plotter then paid his bill and went away. Up to this point, Rathbun had carried out his plans without a hitch. How he intended to realize on the insurance has not developed. After leaving Jeffersonville he came here, and, making no attempt at concealment, hung about the army recruiting station until arrested yesterday.

Statement Made by Rathbun.

Rathbun was a private in the army and had been employed at various reruiting stations, among others at Little Rock. In September he was sent to Plattsburg, N. Y. On Aug. 6 he had married a young woman at Little Rock.

After his arrest Rathbun said that at Plattsburg barracks, N. Y., he and a corporal fixed up the plan to collect the $4,000 insurance. He said: "The plan was to 'slip' a 'stiff' into the hotel and then set fire to the building after having left letters and papers of mine in the pockets of the 'stiff's' clothes. Of course when the hotel burned we expected the stiff to be burned up, too, or at least so scorched that no one could recognize him."

He says the corporal came to Louisville and under their agreement the corporal was to secure the corpse.

Rathbun hints that the corporal drugged the victim, if he was drugged. He says he does not know where the corporal is now.

Rathbun enlisted here as Lou Root, gave his birthplace as Detroit, his nearest relative as J. Brown of Debray, Mich., his trade as a printer and his age as 27.

The Myth of Ten Eyck.

At the police station Rathbun was put through the sweating process, and under pressure made the following statement, according to his inquisitors:

"My name is Newell C. Rathbun, and my home is in Little Rock, Ark. Several months ago I deserted from the army post at Plattsburg, N. Y., in company with another recruit by the name of W. H. Ellis. I soon lost sight of him, and went on to Little Rock. There I was married and afterward took out the insurance policies.

"I came to Louisville about ten days ago and formed a plan to make the insurance company think I was dead, so that I could collect the insurance. He fell in with a man who said his name was W. L. Ten Eyke in front of the Salvation Army headquarters in Louisville, and told him of my plan and he agreed to help me. Our plan was to obtain a corpse from some place, put it in a hotel in Jeffersonville and then set fire to the hotel.

"While we were in Jeffersonville we took a number of drinks and Ten Eyke got drunk. I think his death was caused by drinking. I put the letters addressed to me in his pocket and left. I did not kill him. I then came to Louisville and went to the recruiting office and enlisted. My real home is in Detroit."

The police say that "Ten Eyke' is a fiction; that Rathbun posed as "Ten Eyke," and will yet confess the whole crime.'

The Two Men at the Hotel.

From the time that the two men who registered as Rathbun and Ten Eyck registered at the Falls City Hotel, Jeffersonvile, on last Wednesday evening, until one of them was found dead in his room, their behavior was regarded as suspicious.

They made their debut in Jeffersonville on Wednesday evening. The contrast in their personal appearance was striking.

The man registering as Newell C. Rathbun was shabbily dressed, while the man who registered as William Ten Eyck of Watertown, N. Y., was better attired. Beside the name of Newell C. Rathbun the shabby stranger wrote Little Rock, Ark.

After supper Rathbun's whole appearance was changed. He had discarded the old and faded brown coat and vest for a new grap striped suit. Ten Eyck's valise bulged when he entered the lobby and some of its contents went to better the appearance of his friend. In a casual way, Ten Eyck remarked to Landlord Ogden that he met Rathbun in Little Rock "when I was up against it and he befriended me. We met again in Louisville and he was on the under wave."

The explanation passed and the landlord thought no more of his two guests. Ten Eyck was always the spokesman. After supper he went to the landlord and said that he and his friend intended to be out late. "We are going out for a little time and it may be late when we get back," were his words.

Mr. Ogden saw them no more that night. About 8 o'clock on Thursday morning Ten Eyck sauntered into the lobby.

Explained That Rathbun Was Drunk.

"He was drunk when he went to bed," he said, "referring to Rathbun, "and he wishes to sleep as long as possible. Tell him if he wants to see me he can find me where he met me in Louisville Wednesday."

After breakfast Ten Eyck left. "Maybe I will come back this evening" were his parting words.

At noon Mr. Ogden decided to awaken his guest. He knocked on the door of room 50, the one occupied by the couple.

There was no response. The door was forced and the man who registered as Newell C. Rathbun was found dead.

"Alcoholism," thought the landlord. But Deputy Coroner Coots was summoned.

Rathbun's clothes were searched. In one pocket a letter from his wife was found. It was signed Sue Rathbun, 1204 High street, Little Rock. It had been received at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., while he was a member of Company K, Twenty-seventh Infantry. The letter was burdened with an abandoned wife's love for a husband whom she did not believe had deserted her. The letter implored him not to kill himself. In a pocket memorandum was this entry, written by the man:

"My name is Newell C. Rathbun. In case of accident or death notify my wife, Sue Rathbun, 1204 High street, Little Rock, Ark."

Death Due to Laudanum.

Then came the explanation of the suicide theory. Deputy Coroner Coots found that Rathbun's death was due to laudanum poison. Enough had been administered to kill two men. But stranger still, no evidence of it could be found. The bottle was destroyed or lost. And then, for the first time, Ten Eyck was associated with the death of the man whom he claimed as a friend. This discovery was made on Friday. Twenty-four hours had passed since the well-dressed stranger who claimed New York state as his home bade the landlord farewell.

In police circles it was believed that the drug was given to Rathbun without his knowledge. Then began the search for Ten Eyck. He would not have been accused of murder, but the police wanted a few minutes' talk with him, just to find out what he knew of the man. A few people still clung to the suicide theory, and cited the appeal of his wife to strengthen their belief.

On Friday evening the body was sent to Little Rock. The Citizens' Bank of that place guaranteed the expenses. The deputy coroner's verdict was that Rathbun died of laudanum poisoning.

Ten Eyck's Letter to Coroner Coots.

Conorer Coots heard from Ten Eyck on Saturday. He wrote from Louisville, so he said, but failed to tell where he could be found. The writing was in a back hand, showing the writer to be well educated, as not a punctuation mark, capital or paragraph was misplaced. The letter is as follows:

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 8.—Coroner Coots, Jeffersonville, Ind.—Dear Sir: In looking over tonight's paper I see that you wanted to see me in regard to Rathbun, so will write what I know. When in Little Rock last summer I met him and he did me several favors and helped me financially, so when I met him here and found him without money, I paid for his supper, bed and breakfast, gave him a coat and vest that I had in my grip, and during the evening bought several drinks. We took the 11:30 boat across, and, thought he was rather drunk, he was able to walk without assistance. Do not think he had any thoughts of suicide, as he was jolly and in good spirits when he went to his room, which was the last I saw of him. He drank nothing but whisky all the evening, and said he had not drank that much before in some time.

I did not wait for him because I did not want him with me. Respectfully,

W. L. TEN EYCK.

BODY WILL BE EXAMINED.

Autopsy to Be Held to Determine Manner of Death.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 12.—The supposed body of Newell C. Rathbun has been turned over to the coroner and placed in a vault to await the autopsy. Attorney Henry M. Armistead, who has been representing the interests of the family, visited the residence where the body was lying today and states that Mrs. Rathbun is so hysterical and nervous that she hardly knows what she has said. He declares that she has seen the body only once, and that being but a glance, and that since that time she has been too nearly prostrated to again undergo the ordeal. He declares that there is not the remotest evidence of collusion on the part of any member of the family in the perpetration of any fraud. He further declares that the family has been frightened into making certain statements attributed to them.

After Mrs. Rathbun had viewed the corpse and said it was not that of her husband, Mrs. McKown, Mrs. Rathbun's sister, declared it should not remain in her house another hour. Chief of Police McMahon has received a message from the chief of police of Louisville reuqesting him to send all the clothes and effects shipped with the corpse to Louisville for identification.

Chief McMahon wired the Louisville chief a description of the corpse, but refused to send anything else.

He says he will keep the corpse until some one comes in person from Louisville to identify it.

ST. L. TRANSIT CO.

IS EXPECTED

TO BUY SUBURBAN

Negotiations Are in Progress Between Representatives of the Corporations.

MAY BE SALE OR LEASE

MESSRS. C. H. TURNER AND S. M. KENNARD IN NEW YORK ON THE DEAL.

Brokers Expect the Announcement of an Agreement to Be Made by Both Sides Within the Next Two Weeks.

Brokers believe that the long-expected absorption of the Suburban system by the Transit company will be announced as a fact within the next two weeks.

It is a fact that negotiations are in progress between representatives of the Transit and Suburban system looking towards a consolidation.

Messrs. James Campbell, Charles H. Turner and Samuel M. Kennard were in New York last week on business connected with this prospective consolidation.

Mr. Campbell has returned, but Messrs. Turner and Kennard are still in New York.

At their conferences in New York, Messrs. Campbell, Turner and Kennard agreed upon a proposition to be submitted to the other stockholders of the Suburban railroad.

This proposition concerns the terms at which Messrs. Campbell, Kennard and Turner favor selling or leasing the Suburban to the Transit company.

It is thought that a favorable decision, on the part of the holders of the large majority of the stock, will be reached within two weeks.

An indication of an impending deal of considerable magnitude was the transit company's recent action in paying off its floating debt and issuing instead three-year bonds for the entire amount borrowed by the company to make this possible.

The company borrowed $6,000,000. Bonds, covering $4,000,000 of this amount, were sold in New York, the remainder being taken in St. Louis.

The transit company now has 351 miles of track in St. Louis and the suburbs. The Suburban has 39 9-10 miles within the city limits and almost as much in its suburban lines to Meramec Highlands, Florissant, Clayton and Ferguson.

In the three months ending Sept. 30 the report of the transit company to the city register showed that its cars had made 1,174,316 trips and carried 30,902,713 passengers.

The Suburban reports for the same quarter showed 72,890 trips and 4,029,925 passengers.

RED WHITE AND BLUE LIVERY

President Roosevelt Has Adopted Striking and Patriotic Colors for His Servants.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A cockade of red, white and blue is the most noticeable feature of the new White House livery, although the national colors are in evidence throughout the costume in which the President's coachman and footman has just appeared for the first time.

President Roosevelt's aversion to horses with docked tails is making it difficult for his stable manager to find a suitable team of bay geldings for White House use. The markets of New York, Baltimore and Washington have been visited, but the right team has not yet been found.

"There is any number of splendid horses with docked tails to be had," said an attache of the White House today, "but the President will not have that kind. He is opposed to the docking of horses' tails, believing it cruel and unnecessary, and he will not help the fad by riding behind a span of bang-tails."

Little Francis Miller Dropped Dead When She Realized Her Beloved Uncle Was No More.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 12.—Three-year-old Frances Marguerite Miller thought a great deal of her uncle Julius. He died Thursday, and the little girl, who, not realizing what death meant, understood that uncle Julius would never tell her any more stories, so she begged her mamma Saturday morning to let her have one last look at her uncle. The child went alone to his house, where she was permitted to see him. She seemed much affected, but returned home apparently in her usual health.

Soon after, little Marguerite dropped dead. That afternoon uncle Julius was buried. Today his little niece was laid beside him in Mountain Grove Cemetery.

ONE O'CLOCK STILL THE CLOSING HOUR

MR. SEIBERT DENIES REPORT OF PROBABLE CHANGE.

HAS NOT SEEN THE GOVERNOR

Nothing in Rumor That Saloon Men Petitioned for Other Arrangement.

It was generally discussed and believed in the downtown cafes and bars Monday night that Excise Commissioner Seibert had been to Jefferson City and had conferred with Gov. Dockery on the advisability of permitting saloons to remain open after 1 o'clock a. m.

The reason, it was stated, that Mr. Seibert had taken the step was the receipt of a petition that he do so, signed by a number of politically strong saloon and hotel keepers. Political reasons, it is said, were given in the petition for the change in the closing hour.

Excise Commissioner Seibert, to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday morning, denied in toto the report. He said that he had not received a petition from any individual saloonkeeper or any individual to abrogate the 1 o'clock closing hour. He had not discussed the matter with Gov. Dockery, nor had the governor suggested such an act to him. The closing hour for saloons, he declared would remain at 1 a. m., and any saloonkeeper who violated it, without regard to his political or other influence, would be punished. The 1 o'clock closing rule was cast-iron and would stick.

Playmate of Michael Says He Was Led Away by Man Who Used Picture.

Mrs. A. E. Elsman of 8327 Pennsylvania avenue has reported to the police the kidnaping by an unidentified man of her 10-year-old son, Michael Biessel, and has offered a reward for the child's return.

According to the statement of Mrs. Durion, with whom Mrs. Elsman and her child boarded, the boy was decoyed away from the Carondelet school yard, one block from his home, by a man, who attracted his attention with a picture.

Joseph Durion, 10 years old, says he witnessed the abduction of the Biessel boy, who was his playmate.

The boy is Mrs. Elsman's son by a former marriage. She was married four years ago to Dr. Gus Elsman. Dr. Elsman and his wife have lived apart for some time past.

Mrs. Durion says the man who took away the Biessel boy had been about her house and the school for several hours before the abduction, and had entered a small bakeshop kept by her and bought some doughnuts.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Edgar Stanton Maclay, the author of "A History of the United States Navy," who is still working as a clerk in the Brooklyn navy yard, is preparing to make changes in his history if Rear Admiral Schley is exonerated. He said in an interview:

WORLD'S FAIR CO. TO USE CAMPUS

Washington University Consents to the Arrangement.

COMPANY WILL PAY RENT

INSTITUTION'S NEW BUILDINGS INCLUDED IN LEASE.

Deal Gives Exposition Use of 110 Acres and It Will Erect Permanent Structure for Use of University.

Washington University site, comprising 110 acres west of the Skinker road, will be a part of the World's Fair grounds and the new university buildings on them will be used for World's Fair purposes.

The deal was closed Tuesday morning at a meeting of the board of directors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co.

The contract is now being drawn up, and the board of directors has authorized President Francis to sign it, with the approval of the executive committee.

"The university authorities will go on building between now and the time of the Fair," said President Francis Tuesday. "They will use the rental we pay them in grading and embellishing the grounds.

"All the buildings erected by them will be permanent structures, to be used by the Fair until its close, and afterward to be used by the university.

"Besides, the World's Fair company will erect buildings on the site which will be only temporary structures, to be torn down after the Fair.

"This gives the Fair the use of 110 acres additional ground and buildings already erected at a cost of $300,000.

Resolutions were adopted by the directors at their meeting Tuesday giving notice of a change in the by-laws of the company making the president of the board of directors the chief executive officer of the exposition and placing under him four directors.

This plan does away with the office of director-general, giving the president of the board of directors his authority.

The four directors under him will be known, respectively, as director of exhibits, director of exploitation, director of works and director of concessions and admissions.

They will receive their authority from the president of the company and will act under his instructions.

President Francis announced to the directors at Tuesday's meeting that a plan was under contemplation to send a commission to Europe to arouse World's Fair interest.

He announced the following appointments:

Jose de Olivares, commissioner to Argentina, Uruguay, Bolivia and Chili; John Taylor Lewis of Brazil, commissioner to Brazil; Ernest N. Wands of New York, commissioner to Peru, Ecuador, Colombia and Venezuela; John Rice Chandler of California, commissioner to Central America, and Thomas W. Cridler, commissioner representing the Fair abroad.

He also reported that the contract had been let for a Louisiana Purchase Exposition building at Charleston to be like that at Buffalo.

ELOPING IS A FAMILY TRAIT

Three Generations of Disobedient Children Punished With Happiness, Riches and Children.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 12.—Mrs. George A. Smith and Mrs. Edward Morgenroth, sisters, have just inherited $125,000 each from their grandfather, John Christian Lappe, the late millionaire Pittsburg tanner. Mr. Smith was a struggling young lawyer when he ran off to Golden, Colorado's Gretna Green, and married 16-year-old Miss Robitzer. The young woman was merely imitating the tanner grandfather and his sweet heart, who were runaways. Lappe was a German, and it was necessary for him to make his sweetheart his wife in defiance of her French mother's wishes. The tanner forgave the lawyer, who has since become a leader at the bar and is interested in the new oil Eldorado in Texas.

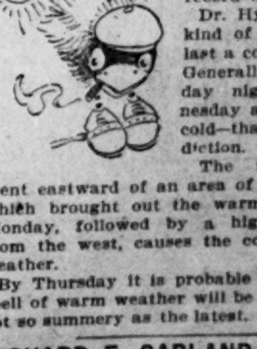
The parents of Miss Robitzer, despite the fact that their own love affair was also romantic, objected to their daughter's marriage to Mr. Smith. Mrs. Robitzer was Rosalie Lappe, daughter of the tanner. Her father wanted her to marry a certain rich young man, but she chose Robitzer, who was a poor scenic artist then, whose name may yet been seen on signs in Denver that he painted as potboilers. Mr. Smith thought, all things considered, that the one-time struggling artist had no right to object to him, but the artist declared it was merely because his daughter was too young.

It happened that all these disobedient young couples lived happily ever after, but Mrs. Smith says she will see to it that her own little daughter, Georgie, does not travel to Golden to marry.

SNAPPY WEATHER TO CONTINUE

Thursday It Will Be Warm Again, but Not as Summery as Latest Spell.

Tuesday is 30 degrees colder than was Monday, and not very cold at that. The temperature was 35 at 7 o'clock, as against 66 the corresponding hour Monday. There was summer heat at noon Monday with 74 degrees, while at noon Tuesday the record was only 44.



THESE CHANGES KEEP ME GUESSING

Dr. Hyatt says this kind of weather will last a couple of days. Generally fair Tuesday night and Wednesday and continued cold—that is the prediction.

The rapid movement eastward of an area of low pressure which brought out the warm weather of Monday, followed by a high barometer from the west, causes the cold and clear weather.

By Thursday it is probable that another spell of warm weather will be here, though not so summery as the latest.

EAGER LOVERS MAKE MIDNIGHT MARRIAGE

AFTER WAITING TEN YEARS, DAWN TOO FAR OFF.

RUSH ORDER FOR CUPID.

Love's Time Card—Midnight, Clayton; 12:01, License; 1, Married; 2, Start on Wedding Journey.

James H. Allen of Olney, Ill., and Viola M. Goalder of Hickman, Ky., were married Monday morning shortly after midnight.

They made an effort early Sunday morning to have the knot tied, but Peter Wetzel, who issues marriage licenses at Clayton, refused to give them the desired document on Sunday because he was afraid it would not be legal.

The couple have been engaged for ten years, but have delayed their wedding until recently because the bridegroom was not in a position to support th object of his affections in the manner he desired.

Mr. Allen is 38 years old, and his wife is 10 years younger. They first met while Mr. Allen was an express messenger on a train that passed the home of Miss Goalder in Kentucky, and became engaged shortly afterward.

The young woman's parents, who are prominent socially, her father, J. A. Goalder, being president of the Hickman National Bank, had visions of a more pretentious marriage, which would unite his daughter to one of the leading families of the Blue Grass state.

Allen realized that in his position as an express messenger he could not support the daughter of a Kentucky banker in the manner she had been accustomed. He worked with energy, however, and finally became manager of the leading dry goods house in Olney.

When the Spanish war came on he went to Cuba with the troops, was transferred to the Philippines,, and recently came back to Olney to resume his love affair.

Last Sunday morning Miss Goalder walked into the home of her cousin, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell, at No. 720 North Euclid avenue. She found a sympathetic listener to her love tale

"He is coming in an hour," was her announcement, after explaining matters. "Can't you help us?"

Mrs. Mitchell used the telephone and asked the Clayton marriage bureau for a license. She says she misunderstood Clerk Wetzel, for she ordered a carriage, thinking the affair would come off as soon as the party reached Clayton. When they confronted Mr. Wetzel, however, he said there had been some mistake, and the ceremony must be postponed until Monday.

The lovers looked at one another for a moment, and then Miss Goalder said, plaintively:

"Would you, please, Mr. Wetzel, give us the license as early Monday morning as possible?"

The heart of the man who has listened to so many tales of woe from lovers in all walks of life softened.

"I'll have it for you Monday morning as soon as you call for it."

"Thank you," said the prospective bride. "We will be here." Then the party drove away.

At midnight they were back for the momentous document.

At one minute past 12 o'clock Monday morning the license was handed to them and they hastened to Judge James H. Allen, who had been notified by Clerk Wetzel to be ready to perform the marriage ceremony.

At 1 o'clock Miss Goalder became Mrs. Allen.

At 2 o'clock they had started on their wedding journey to Olney, which will be their future home.

WILL BE BURIED ALIVE SIX DAYS

HYPNOTIST SAYS HE WILL GO INTO CATALEPTIC STATE.

LEARNED FROM THE HINDOOS

Experiment to Be Tried in Kansas City in Presence of Committee of Physicians.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Carl Atheno, who says he is a hypnotist, will allow himself to be buried alive under six feet of earth at 8 o'clock next Monday night in the vacant lot on the northeast corner of Eleventh and Wyandotte streets, and if he succeeds in his experiment he will remain underground for six days and five nights. Atheno says he has performed the experiment successfully just 50 times in this country and is not associated with any other persons in the practice of hypnotism. He has been around the world twice and says he learned how to relapse into a cataleptic state from the Hindoos of India.

"There is no fake about my exhibition," said Atheno. "I will be placed in a pine coffin 6 feet 8 inches long, 2 feet 4 inches deep and 2 feet 4 inches wide, containing 144 cubic feet of air. Just before I am placed in the coffin I will go into a cataleptic state and will not regain consciousness until six days and five nights have passed. At the end of that time the coffin will be taken out and the striking of an alarm clock will restore me to consciousness. To prove that my demonstration is not a 'fake' I will have a committee of physicians place me in the box and bury me. In order that the interior of the coffin may be seen at any time a tube reaching from the coffin to the surface of the ground will be placed just over my face, over which a brilliant electric light will shine. As the coffin will have a glass top there will be no air admitted from the tube unless an accident happens and I awake, and in that event the glass will be broken."

Atheno will give the experiment, he says, in order to organize a society for psychological research. Atheno says he has been buried in New York, Chicago, Boston, Louisville, Cleveland and many other large cities in the United States. He has not given the demonstration for 18 months. He is only 27 years old and has been a hypnotist since he was 15 years of age. He says he will take no food or water during the time he is under the ground, and that he will be in a state of suspended animation. The feat, he decalres, is the same as that performed by the Hindoo fakirs who remain buried alive for 40 days and nights.

MUTINY'S LEADER CAUGHT

Thompson, the Negro Convict, Shot Down by Farmer Near Council Grove, Kan.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 12.—Frank Thompson, the big negro leader of the convict mutineers, was captured by three farmers in a strip of timber near Council Grove, Kan., late Monday. He was armed with a 44-caliber revolver and shot at the farmers. One of the farmers brought Thompson down with a load of buckshot, one striking him in the head. Thompson is now in the Council Grvoe jail, and will be brought in by United States Deputy Marshal Prescott this morning.

Lawrence Lewis, another of the escaped convicts ,was seriously wounded and captured near Quenemo, Kan., while making a dash through a cordon of armed deputies. Now there are but 12 convicts at large.

Architect W. S. Eames of the new federal penitentiary, arrived from St. Louis yesterday. He visited the stockade with Warden McClaughrey. Mr. Eames stated that he favored changing the building plans so as to erect a cell house at once to hold convicts at the new penitentiary, even if the cooking has to be done at the old prison.

Take Off More Cars.

The through car service from St. Louis to Clayton has been cut down from six cars to four, and nearly a mile has been added to the length of the route within the city. The running time from Fourth and Pine streets to the new Log Cabin Club on the Clayton road is one hour, but conductors say that the distance cannot be covered in that length of time.

Nothing Tastes Good

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be.

This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured the niece of Frank Fay, 106 N. St., South Boston, Mass., who writes that she had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for six years; had been without appetite and had been troubled with sour stomach and headache. She had tried many other medicines in vain. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla made her well.

TRACK OBSTRUCTION SENTENCES UPHELD

BRENNAN AND NORTHWAY MUST GO TO PENITENTIARY.

TRIAL COURT NOT IN ERROR

Defendants Were Charged With Blowing Up Cable Conduit During Street Car Strike.

A special dispatch to the Post-Dispatch says:

Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court this morning affirmed the judgment of the St. Louis court, sentencing Morris Brennan and Fred Northway to the penitentiary for obstructing the tracks of the street railways of St. Louis during the big strike there. Northway gets eight years in the penitentiary and Brennan gets 10 years.

Judge Gantt wrote the opinion in which the court says it found the evidence sufficient to convict the defendants, for it was a case of two men tearing up property belonging to other parties.

Concerning the charge by the attorneys for the defendants that the trial court refused certain instructions to the jury, the Supreme Court says:

"We have uniformly ruled that where the court has properly instructed the jury it is not error to refuse other instructions, even though they state correct principles of law, and we have often deprecated the multiplying of instructions."

No reversable errors having beeen found in the trial of these cases, the Supreme Court affirmed the judgments and Brennan and Northway must go to the penitentiary to serve out their sentences.

RAGTIME ARTISTICALLY DONE

Columbia's Bill for the Current Week Offers Some Excellent Features of Various Kinds.

Those who think there is nothing artistic in ragtime music and those who think that ragtime music doesn't appeal to the finer sensibilities ought to go to the Columbia this week and hear Elizabeth Murray sing a couple of songs which come under that head. If they do not change their opinions it will be because they are not open to conviction, for her singing is not only artistic, but deliciously tuneful. There are plenty of other songs sung during the entertainment, notably bits of classical and operatic music by the four troubadors, who do a most elaborate turn, but did not give the real enjoyment to the large audience last night that did the ragtime fancies.

Another absorbing turn on the Columbia program this week is the drill and battle scene by the Union Gatling Guards. The act consists first of a plain drill and secondly of a sham battle. The scenery is also elaborate and the entire number is most interesting.

Others on the excellent program are: McIntyre & Heath, in their colored sketch, "The Man From Montana;" Davenport and Mantell, in the soubrette and the tramp; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shaw, change artists—singers and dancers; Mack and Elliott in "The New Minister;" Leonzo, new feats in jugglery; Seamon and Monti, operatic selections; Aglos trio, European equilibrists; George Macomber and Nan Engleton, travesty stars, introducing the war scene from "Virginius;" W. C. Fields, comedy juggler, and Joe Welch from Morgan street.

WEALTHY MAN TO WED.

Mr. Devous is a miller and large land owner of Ridgeway. He is considered one of the wealthiest men in the town.

Miss Smith's father was formerly engineer in Mr. Devous' mill. Miss Smith was at that time a small girl. Mr. Devous and his wife, who was then living, took great interest in her. They treated her like father and mother.

Mrs. Devous died six months ago. Several weeks ago Mr. Devous visited the Smiths who had moved from Ridgeway to East St. Louis, and when he went home he had Miss Smith's promise to become his wife.

EARTH MAY NEVER SEE LEONIDS AGAIN

FATHER BRENNAN THINKS THEY ARE OUT OF ORBIT.

JUPITER HAS DEFLECTED THEM

St. Louis Scientist Believes Astronomers Who Expect Phenomenon Tuesday Night Will Be Disappointed.

It has been announced that between midnight of Tuesday and dawn of Wednesday America would be treated to a dazzling meteoric display, due to the earth crossing the orbit of Temple's comet.

Astronomers in many parts of the world are preparing to photograph it, if they can, or, at least, to chart this wonderful phenomenon.

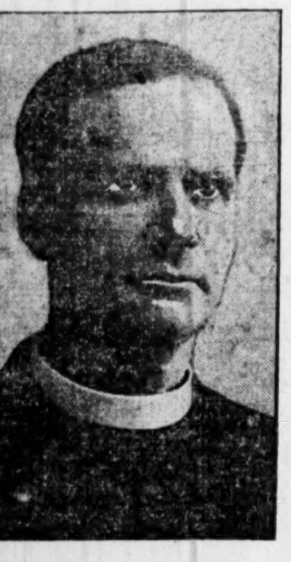
The meteors that are expected are not falling stars, as many suppose. Indeed, they are not stars at all. They are simply small masses of matter, perhaps rock or metal, or only puffs of dust or gas.

They are flying through space in a large oval orbit in a procession, millions of miles long. They appear to emanate from a radiant in the constellation of Leo, inside the curve of the "sickle," hence their name leonids.

They make the circumference of their orbit three times in a century, or once in every 33 1-3 years.

The leonids were first observed Oct. 13, 902, A. D., and again Oct. 13, 1002, and have been seen every 33 1-3 years since until 1899, when they did not appear. They were looked for in 1900, and are expected Nov. 12-13 this year.

Now, it is stated by certain eminent astronomers that they will never be seen again by the people of the earth, because they have been pulled off their orbit by Jupiter.



REV. MARTIN S. BRENNAN.

He believes that the shower of leonids which astronomers are preparing to observe Tuesday night will not occur because Jupiter has deflected them into its orbit.

Rev. Martin S. Brennan of St. Louis, one of the eminent astronomers of America and a fellow of the British Astronomical Association, is of this opinion. His account of the leonids and their disappearance from the ken of man is interesting.

BY REV. MARTIN S. BRENNAN.

The so-called leonids that astronomers are hoping to see between midnight Tuesday and dawn Wednesday consist of waste matter traveling in the path of Temple's comet.

Temple's comet is one of a system of eight or nine comets belonging to the short periodic class that cannot be seen by the naked eye and which travel on long fixed orbits around the sun and off into space.

Each of these comets becomes more consumptive each time it approaches the sun, the strong repulsive influence of which drives their matter toward the center. They are gradually becoming extinct. The particles of Temple's comet are spread over such a vast area that it takes more than one-third of a year for the swarm to pass. The orbit of this comet intersects that of the earth three times in a century. If it has retained its old orbit, the orbits of it and the earth should have intersected Nov. 12 and 13, 1899. They did not.

The last time the leonids were seen in this country was in 1867. They were due in 1866, but they were not seen in this country because that portion of the earth embracing Europe was in front. It only takes a few hours for the earth to run through the swarm, but it takes a year for them to run past the earth, so in 1867 America was in front and saw the last of them.

When the leonids were not seen Nov. 13, 1899, nor again in 1900, the British Astronomical Association appointed a committee of its most eminent members to examine the cause. They came to the conclusion that the leonids, after crossing the earth's orbit in 1866, had encountered Jupiter, and his attraction had so changed their orbit that we on the earth will never see them again. I believe this hypothesis to be true.

There are innumerable comets off in space. Traveling in their own orbits, they are attracted by the sun, go around it and fly off again into outer space whence they came, and are seen no more. Their orbits are hyperbolas. If, in their passage, they should come within the attraction of Saturn their orbits are thus closed and made ellipses. In this way did the eight or nine periodic comets come within our observation. Temple's comet was thus caught and put into an elliptical orbit. While thus traveling, some time between 1866 and 1899, it came within the influence of Jupiter and was deflected from its regular orbit into another that has carried it beyond the orbit of the earth.

That is why we did not see the leonids, which follow in its path, in 1899, and why we will probably never see them again. So the people of the earth will miss one of the most startling and awful of the phenomena of the solar system.

The leonids are small particles of vapor about the size of canary seeds, certainly no larger than bees. When they come within human observation they are traveling toward the earth from a radiant in the "sickle" in the constellation of Leo, at the rate of 44 miles a second, and the earth is rushing to meet them at the rate of 18 miles a second. When the leonids strike the atmosphere of the earth, tenuous as it is at the edges, the resistance to this tremendous motion causes immense friction, which heats the patricles to one million degrees Fahrenheit, and they are burned instantly.

The leonids cannot be counted by millions or billions; indeed, there is no human computation of their numbers. The only word that will express it is myriads, and there are myriads upon myriads of them. The particles fall with such frequency that they outnumber the flakes in a heavy snowstorm. The glory of the sight of the leonids may be imagined if one will conceive a storm in the heavens, not of snowflakes, but of an infinitely greater number of sparks. The incandescence of the leonids is instantaneous, however, and they never come closer to the earth than 50 miles before they are totally consumed. If any part of them reaches the earth at all it is in the form of impalpable powder.

Like other comets, Temple's is not a solid, but is composed of a very tenuous vapor 16 times lighter than air. A star beyond can be seen through its head. The reason it can be seen at all is because of the sun's reflection on even such a thin substance in that vast space.

By reason of Jupiter's interference the orbit of the leonids has been so changed that now it is distant 1,500,000 miles.

Leonids Are

Not Meteors.

The Leonids are not to be confounded with meteors or falling stars, which are familiar enough to observers of the heavens. Most of them are very brief and faint, but some are brilliant and remain longer visible. Occasionally one is seen that is as bright as Venus, and these, on exploding, shower to the earth particles of stone or iron, which are called "aerolites." Such occurrences are rare, however. The meteor is a rush light to the burning of a city when compared with the Leonids.

The Leonids travel in a vast procession, at least 1,500,000,000 miles long and hardly 1,000,000 miles wide, as the earth passes through it in less than half a day. Its progress is like that of an army marching in fours. In front and rear, the order is loose, in the center it is compact. But the procession is not regular in its structure. This is proved by the fact that during the shower, the display ceases for minutes at a time and then is resumed.

The greatest display of Leonids in modern times occurred in 1833, which was known as "the year of stars." The display at that time was terrifying to the ignorant and superstitious.

From midnight until daybreak of Nov. 13 of that year the sky was literally filled with these small burning particles, which moved silently, swiftly and dazzlingly through space, ranging in size from the merest spark to great balls of fire, larger and brighter than the moon. Persons all over the country thought the world had come to an end. In the South hundreds of negroes killed themselves in an excess of fear.

Nov. 28, 1872, about six weeks after Biela's comet should have passed the earth, a shower of meteors was visible, coming from a radiant in the constellation of Andrameda. The radiant was precisely in the spot where the comet was expected to appear, and there is no doubt the meteors were related to Bielas' comet, as the Leonids are to Temple's comet.

The Leonids will not appear on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, I fear. It is a pity, for the world will probably never have another opportunity to see such a spectacular display.

The "sickle" of Leo will not rise Tuesday until midnight. It will rise in the east in the path of the sun and will be in the zenith at dawn. Should the Leonids appear the earth would approach them at the rate of 18 miles a second. The Leonids would be pouring out of the radiant in the "sickle," like water from a hose that is directed at a certain point. As they struck the earth's atmosphere they would spatter as the water from the hose does when it strikes a wall.

Instantly the Leonids would burn, filling the whole vault of the heavens with untold myriads of sparks, burning and dying, while other untold myriads took their place to burn and die indefinitely until dawn drew a curtain of daylight over the marvelous scene, which yet would go on until the orbits had cleared one another.

The scene would be so awful in its grandeur, vastness and mystery that it would strike a sort of undefined terror to the strongest heart, and affect the wisest mind. The great black vault of heaven, filled with fire and the awful silence with which it burned would leave a lasting effect both on those who do and those who do not fear and revere the majesty of God's works.

DORA ENGLISH'S NEW FRIEND.

Norah Leslie Sends Her Toys Through a Letter to the Post-Dispatch.

Little Dora English has a new friend, Norah Leslie, and has acquired some more toys.

Dora is that little unfortunate cripple you read about in the Post-Dispatch. You saw her picture, too, Sunday.

Dora has been a patient at the Children's Hospital, Jefferson avenue and Adams street, for two years.

It ain't much fun if you are a little girl with hip disease and have to use crutches. But Dora? Did she mind this much? No. Because Dora likes to read books and play with dolls and tea-sets.

But when you have no ma, no pa, nor brother, sister or auntie it's just awful!

Dora has no relatives. She had not even her own particular dear friend. Why, almost everybody has a dear friend. But almost everybody can get around.

A lady visiting the hospital discovered Dora's longing one day, and she wrote the Post-Dispatch about it.

And the consequence was Dora made ever so many friends. And toys? Why, she must take periodical inventories of them to keep things in shape.

Norah Leslie read all about Dora, so she wrote the following letter:

Post-Dispatch, St. Louis' Leading Paper: Please deliver the toys to the little girl ("Dora") your paper mentioned Sunday morning. I am a little girl myself, 10 years old. I sympathize greatly with her in her terrible affliction and hope my few toys will help to gladden her many lonely days, hoping some more children will see in your kind paper of this little girl's misfortune and try to make her forget her great trouble.

Thanking the Post-Dispatch for its kindness in sending my little gift, I am a great admirer of your paper. NORAH Y. LESLIE.

CLERGYMAN'S CHILDREN.

Coffee Being Replaced by Postum Food Coffee.

"I am the wife of a minister. About three years ago a warm friend, an exemplary mother and the conscientious wife of a minister, asked me if I had ever tried giving up coffee and using the Postum Food Coffee. I had been telling her of my excessive nervousness and ill health. She said: 'We drink nothing else for breakfast but Postum Food Coffee, and it is a delight and a comfort to have something that we do not have to refuse the children when they ask for it.'

"I was surprised that she would permit the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she explained that it was a most healthful beverage and that the children thrived on it. A very little thought convinced me that for brain-work, one should not rely upon a stimulant such as coffee is, but should have food and the very best of food.

"My first trial of Postum was a failure. The maid of all work brought it to the table, lukewarm, weak, and altogether lacking in character. We were in despair, but decided on one more trial. At the second trial, we faithfully followed the directions, used four teaspoonsful to the pint of water, let it boil full fifteen minutes after the real boiling began, and served it with rich cream. It was delicious and we were all won.

"I have since sung the praises of Postum Food Coffee on many, many occasions and have induced numbers of friends to abandon coffee and use Postum, with remarkable results. The wife of a college professor said to me a short time ago that nothing had ever produced so marked a change in her husband's health as the leaving off of coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffee." Edith Smith Davis, Appleton, Wis.

BRIDGE ARBITRARY MAY BE BROKEN

PRESIDENT KINGSLAND THINKS MERCHANTS WILL DO IT.

UNITY IS ONLY CONDITION

Movement to Patronize Only Those Roads Billing Direct to St. Louis Is the Method.

"This united movement of the shipping interests of St. Louis will dissolve the bridge arbitrary," said President L. D. Kingsland of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association Tuesday.

"It is up to the citizens, to the St. Louis merchants and manufacturers, and not to the railroads to do away with this burden. It is not the fault of the railroad companies, but of St. Louisans. The stand taken by the roads is natural. They are looking to their interests, but St. Louis has not been looking to its interest.

"The shipping interests of the city have but to demand their rights and they will get them. The roads will yield.

"A meeting of railroad presidents was arranged by the manufacturers of St. Louis some time ago. Those officials came, looked over the field and then said St. Louisans really did not desire a change.

"It was true. Some of the heaviest shippers here were getting special rates, and because they thought they were getting something better than the other fellows and because of a narrow and personal policy, they were unwilling to make any demands. However, all of those concerns now see the mutual benefit to all local interests and are getting right in line with us.

"St. Louis merchant sand manufacturers are not only injuring themselves by refusing to demand their rights, thus driving many big interests from the city, but are hurting the laboring classes, who are dependent upon those interests. By their policy they are building up other cities.

"The idea which is of vital importance, and which must be hammered continually upon, is that the whole issue rests with the people. There is the power. We have on our list some Washington avenue firms which handle 200,000,000 pounds of freight. They undoubtedly would have some influence if they cared to exert it.

"The railroads are just as subservient to public patronage as any other business institution, and therefore must concede to the people what they reasonably demand.

Railroads Wouldn't Antagonize Own Interests.

"The heads of those big companies are among the smartest men in the country and certainly do not intend to antagonize their own interests.

"We do not object to the bridge charge in itself, but what we do object to is that St. Louis is not a terminal. It would be foolish to expect the bridge interests to receive nothing for their investments. What we want is to have goods billed to St. Louis and a charge included in the bill of lading and not have them shipped to East St. Louis and then transferred to this side.

"We want that transfer business done away with and our shipments to come direct. We can accomplish that by patronizing only the roads that will send our goods that way.

"St. Louis is the only city of any considerable size in the United States which is not on the railroad map, and she never has been. Our fight is to put it there."

FAST TIME WINS CONTRACT.

Mail From Australia to London Will Come Via the United States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—According to officials of the New York Central railroad, the British government has decided to send Australian mails for London by way of San Francisco and New York, instead of, as formerly, by way of the Suez canal. It has been demonstrated that the Pacific and American route is slightly over three days faster than the old route from Sydney to London, by way of Colombo, Aden, Brindisi and London.

Mme. Yale's

HAIR TONIC.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to Mme. Yale's Excelsor Hair Tonic, which is the first and only remedy known to chemistry which positively turns gray hair back to its original color without dye. It has gone on record that Mme. Yale—wonderful woman chemist—has made the most valuable of all chemical discoveries. Mme. Yale personally indorses its action, and gives the public her solemn guaranty that it has been tested in every conceivable way and has proved itself to be the ONLY Hair Specific. It STOPS HAIR FALLING immediately and creates a luxuriant growth. Contains no injurious ingredient. Physicians and chemists invited to analyse it. It is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary, it makes the hair soft, youthful, fluffy and keeps it in curl. For gentlemen and ladies with hair a little gray, streaked gray, entirely gray and with bald heads, it is especially recommended.

THIS PERJURY NOT POSSIBLE

Recorders Not Called Upon, Says Supreme Court, to Swear Applicants for Marriage Licenses.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Judge Sherwood decided an interesting point in the case of the State against Marshall Carpenter, a case from Douglas County, in the Supreme Court. Carpenter was indicted for perjury for having made a false oath to the recorder in procuring a marriage license for himself and sweetheart. He swore the girl was of age when, as a matter of fact, she was under age, and also presented a false certificate of consent from the father of his lady love.

The opinion says that it is no part of the duty of a recorder to administer such an oath; that defendant was not required by law to swear to any such matters, and that, therefore, he cannot be held guilty of perjury and therefore discharged him.

BANK VAULT BLOWN OPEN

Robbers Escaped With $300 and Two Men Hurt by Explosion of Left Over Nitro-Glycerine.

TRENTON, Ky., Nov. 12.—The vault of the bank at this place was blown open with nitroglycerine early today by robbers, who secured the postoffice deposit box containing $300. The inner vault was bored, charged and several holes were exploded but the doors could not be forced. The robbers made their escape on a handcar.

As officers and citizens were investigating the condition of the vault an unexploded charge of nitroglycerin let go, severely injuring two men.

There is a through excursion sleeping car to Los Angeles and San Francisco every Tuesday night via the M., K. & T. Railway.

TOOK LIFE AT THIRD TRIAL.

Suicide of Edwin C. Crane of Detroit in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Edwin C. Crane of Detroit, Mich., committed suicide at the Gilsey House today by taking carbolic acid.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 12.—Edwin C. Crane, who was about 40 years of age, has made two other attempts to commit suicide within the past six months. On July 1 he jumped from a ferryboat into the Detroit river, but was rescued by the boat's crew. After his recovery from this attempt on his life Crane removed to New York to engage in musical work. He made the second attempt on his life in that city a few weeks ago, taking morphine. He was resuscitated, however, at a hospital. Mr. Crane had a splendid baritone voice, and at one time was very prominent in local musical circles. Dissipation and the resultant despondency is believed to have been responsible for his suicide.

He leaves a widow and one child.

MISSOURI SUPREME COURT.

Several Important Decisions Rendered Tuesday Morning.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—In Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court this morning Presiding Justice Sherwood decided an interesting point of criminal law in the case of the state vs. Weaver, from Pike County. Weaver was indicted, with three others jointly, for murder, and convicted in the second degree of the offense and sent to the penitentiary.

On the trial the attorneys for the state commented upon the fact that the men who were jointly indicted with Weaver failed to appear on the witness stand to disapprove certain evidence put in by the state, and placed this fact before the jury as going to show Weaver's guilt. Judge Sherwood strongly reprimands this sort of practice as being in direct conflict with the rule that defendant's failure to testify in his own behalf shall not be allowed to raise a presumption of guilt against him. The judgment was reversed and remanded.

Judge Burgess this morning affirmed the judgment of the St. Louis court in sentencing Thomas Valle to the penitentiary for five years for assault with intent to kill. Valle made an assault upon Edward C. Bell.

Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court this morning passed on motions in the following cases.

State ex rel. Underwood vs. Franker, motion to dismiss appeal by respondent.

First National Bank vs. Lamar Water Co., reversed and remanded on stipulation.

State ex rel. Folk vs. Talty, demurrer filed; motion to strike out return of John A. Talty, and motion to strike out portions of return of William C. Buthner, by relator.

State vs. Wilkerson, transferred to Kansas City Court of Appeals.

State vs. Bell, advanced and set for Nov. 26, 1901.

Snyder vs. Elliott, death of Josephine Moore suggested by respondent.

Adjourned to Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1901.

METHODS OF PRISON REFORM.

Topics Discussed by the Convention at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Reports of committees and discussion thereon and the transaction of miscellaneous business took up the time of the morning session at the congress of the National Prison Association this morning. Each were liberally discussed. Then Hon. S. J. Barrows of New York City opened a discussion on "The Revised United States," treating the subject ably. Additional reports were on the program for consideration at the afternoon session, and at 4 o'clock the delegates became the guests of the Commercial Club at a reception at the club's rooms.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I knew of Lydia E. ROOSEVELT READ THEM RIOT ACT

KENTUCKY REPUBLICANS TOLD THEY MUST AGREE AT ONCE.

FOUGHT OVER COLLECTORSHIP.

At a White House Conference Appointees Were Agreed Upon for Louisville and Covington.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Roosevelt sent cold chills chasing up and down the spines of prominent Kentucky Republicans at the White House late yesterday afternoon.

He had asked the different factions to agree on a suitable candidate for collector of Louisville and to report their choice to him. Instead of appearing in a body, the Kentuckians straggled in one by one, and each man brought a request for delay. They had not been able to agree. The President set his teeth, but waited until all the Kentuckians were in the cabinet room. Then he rose and hit the cabinet table a thump with his fist that could be heard out in the lobby.

"Gentlemen," he thundered, "I shall give you until Tuesday afternoon. If you have not decided upon a man by that time, I shall ignore you all and make the appointment to suit myself."

This sent the Kentuckians out of the White House in a panic. They conferred all afternoon and spent most all the night at it.

Finally the matter was settled today at the conclusion of a conference between the President and Senator Deboe, Representative Boreing and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes. The President agreed to appoint E. A. Craft to succeed C. E. Sapp as collector of the Fifth (Louisville) district. At the same conference George W. Leiberth was decided upon for the collectorship of the sixth (Covington) district to succeed D. N. Comingore. The latter is the present collector and was a candidate for reappointment.

"I do not think he will be prosecuted at all," said he. "He has paid me some of the shortage already and I think will pay up everything."

Block was removed from office two months ago and two weeks later a warrant was issued charging him with embezzlement. He was chief of the execution department of the sheriff's office and was said to have collected funds and kept them.

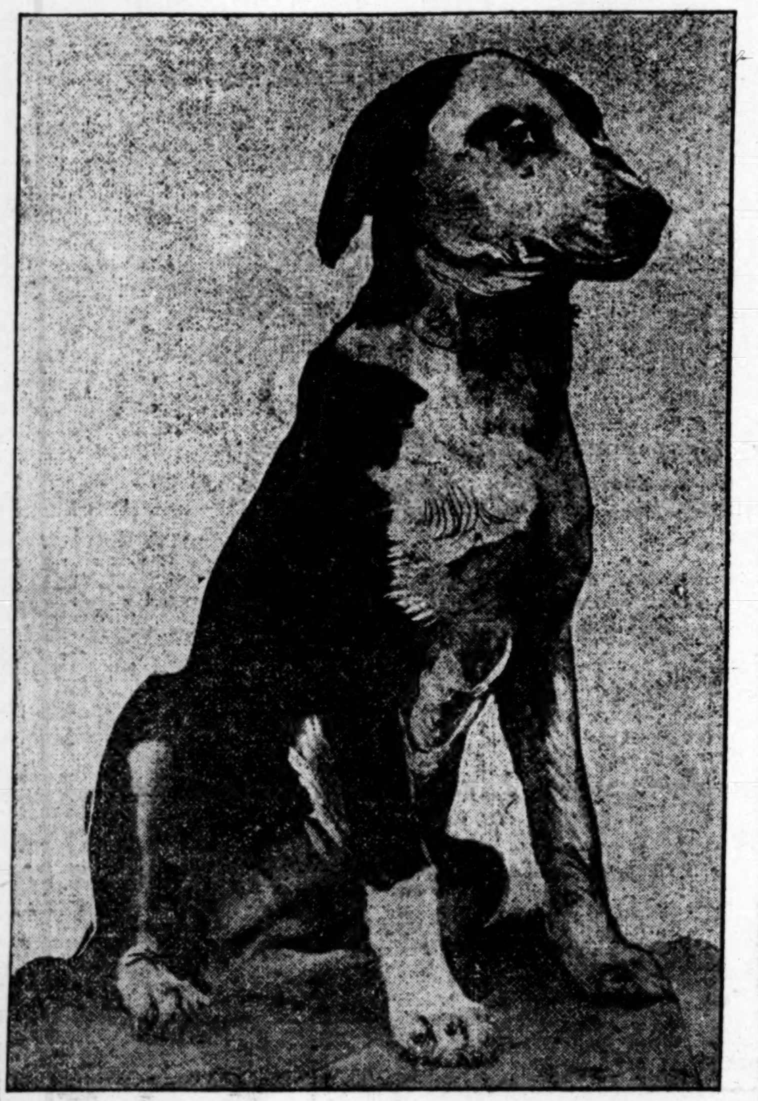
"SPORT," VAGABOND DOG, REFUSES TO LEAVE CHILD PROTECTRESS



Photographed by the Post-Dispatch.

"SPORT." THE VAGABOND DOG.

He refused to leave little Hilda Hormann, who protected him from boys with air guns when he was without friends and several attempts to give him away have failed. He always returns to Hilda.

Hilda Hormann Rescued Him From Boys With Air Guns and He Always Returns to Her, Though Given Away Often.

If little Hilda Hormann possessed the judicial faculty and had placed "Sport" in the balance, she had concluded his integral virtue of amiability was outweighed by the vices of enervation, a voracious appetite, fleas and incompetence to fill the bill of protector and entertainer-in-chief to the Hormann family at 3211 Arsenal street.

Hilda is imbued with sentiment proportionately as she is devoid of analytical powers. She does not love "Sport," the dog, but an ideal, homeless wanderer that was incarnated in the hobo dog in the picture.

She sees "Sport" through strange juvenile spectacles, that make him beautiful and lovable.

"Sport" made his debut around Arsenal street and Compton avenue last September. He was an abject creature, ugly, skinny, with an ambition limited to square meals.

He came in pat as a target for the air rifles of the small boys. In those days he was not "Sport," but simply "It."

One day Hilda, who is 12 years old, rescued him from his youthful tortures.

More than that, she gave him a bone.

More than that, she introduced him to her wood shed and pointed out a hole in the fence whence he might enter the yard when the gate was closed.

A few days later the mongrel's christening too place. He was named "Sport."

The warfare between "Sport" and the naughty boys continued, despite Hilda's powerful protectorate. In trying to evade the boys one day last October "Sport" was run over by a transit company car. Hilda pleaded with her parents that he be nursed and doctored as a rightfully established member of the household.

"Sport" was a pup, and it was thought training might eradicate the vices of his vagabondage. He was taken in.

So were the Hormanns, for "Sport" was beyond redemption.

He was tenderly cared for by Hilda until his leg healed. Then Papa Hormann set his foot down on "Sport" and he had to go.

He was given to Mrs. Meyer of 3215 Arsenal street. But "Sport" went back to Hilda. He was given to Mrs. Doran of 3213 Arsenal street, but he again insisted on returning to Hilda.

Papa Hormann now wants to give "Sport" away to some one in a distant locality.

Hilda says she's "awfully, awfully" sorry to lose "Sport," but they have other dogs in the yard and papa's edict must be respected. Hilda says whoever adopts her dog friend, must promise to love, honor and cherish him.

So she wrote the Post-Dispatch to find some altruistic person to take care of "Sport."

Putting the Shot

For all vigorous effort, whether physical or mental, the nerves must be steady and brain clear. Probably nothing more surely and insidiously upsets the nervous system than the use of coffee. Yet most people require an

Aromatic Warm Drink With Meals

and so use coffee even when they know it to be injurious.

Kneipp Malt Coffee

affords a rich, nutritious, delicious beverage, with much the same flavor as coffee, because it contains the outer covering of the coffee berry, which has the aroma without the harmful elements; also cocoa shells, which add richness and flavor.

It's Food As Well As Drink.

Ask your grocer for it. If he hasn't Kneipp Malt Coffee, he can get it. Ask him to grind it and give you the original cover that you may follow directions for making.

AN INVASION OF THE SOUTH

Sixty Enthusiastic St. Louisans and John Allen to Boom the World's Fair and St. Louis.

Sixty-five representatives of St. Louis merchants and manufacturers constituted the business end of the St. Louis manufacturers' and merchants' excursion which left Union Station Monday night for a week's visit in Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

The excursionists were accompanied by Seymour's band, and "Private" John Allen, the famous story teller, who will provide entertainment in the towns visited.

Mr. Allen is one of the national commissioners of the World's Fair, and he and a corps of competent assistants will boom the World's Fair while his fellow-excursionists will boom St. Louis' business interests.

But every member of the party will take time to spread the fame of the great fair through the south. When the train left Monday night World's Fair badges and streamers were worn by every excursionist and each one of the six Pullman cars in the train were adorned with the twin banners, "World's Fair, St. Louis, 1903" and another marked "St. Louis Merchants and Manufacturers' Excursion."

The party will return to St. Louis Sunday morning, Nov. 17.

BIGGEST OF ST. LOUIS ENGINES.

No. 398 of the Big Four Road, Ran a Mile in Thirty-One Seconds Monday.

Conductors and brakemen in uniforms, engineers and firemen in overalls and jumpers, crowded around Big Four Engine No. 398 in Union Station Tuesday morning, and examined her in every detail.

No. 398 is just from the American Locomotive Works on trial, and Monday run ten miles at the rate of a mile in 31 seconds. That is what made them look at her so closely.

Furthermore, she is the biggest engine that ever pulled a passenger train from St. Louis. Her driving wheels measure 6½ feet in diameter.

Engineer Nick Robinson, a veteran of the Big Four system, was at the throttle when she pulled the New York and Boston limited out of the train shed at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

"I don't know her yet," said he. "But we'll average 65 miles an hour, and some of the time we'll knock off 75 or 80 all right."

The crowd cheered as the big engine, without even a snort, slid out with her heavy train.

Began Second Week of Lectures.

Father Doherty, the Paulist father, began the second week of the series of lectures to non-Catholics at St. John's Church by speaking on "The Sacrifice of the Cross."

Father Conway, who is associated with Father Doherty in this work, discussed a number of religious problems with the audience before Father Doherty lectured. The lectures will continue for two weeks.

"Biggest and Best."

The American Newspaper Directory, Geo. P. Rowell & Co., New York, issued a list of papers, one from each state, selected by them, upon investigation, as the largest circulated paper in the state. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, as everybody knows, has the post of honor for the State of Missouri in this list. George P. Rowell & Co. might have truthfully added, the largest in any state between the Mississippi river and Pacific ocean.

TWICE AS BIG AS ANY OTHER PAPER IN ST. LOUIS AND SUBURBS.

STREET CARS MUST STOP.

It is fortunate that at this time, when Judge Sidener has discharged a citizen who resorted to violence to stop a street car, that Stenographer Dow of the City Counselor's office calls attention to the fact that there is a legal remedy.

Section 176 of the general ordinances reads, in part, as follows: "It shall be the duty of every driver, motorman, gripman, or other servant running any car to bring his car to a full stop at the corners of the streets as hereinbefore provided, whenever requested, signaled or motioned by any person standing at such appropriate corner desiring to board such cars, or by the conductors of such cars, or whenever so requested, signaled or ordered by the conductor or any passenger on such cars desiring to leave such cars, and in every instance such cars shall remain stationary for a sufficient length of time to enable such passenger safely to board or leave such cars."

The next section provides a penalty by fine of from $5 to $100 for each violation.

It will be seen, therefore, that violence is unnecessary and should not be resorted to or excused. The citizen has the law on his side. It may be difficult, in some cases, to enforce it, but if determined and persistent efforts shall be made to do so, the annoyance and illegality of "cars that whizz by" will be a thing of the past.

The effect of such efforts to compel obedience to the law will be far-reaching. It must result in the companies providing more cars, for it will manifestly be unprofitable to be compelled to stop for passengers who cannot get on because a car is crowded to the limit.

POLITICAL MERCHANTS.

In an article on "Commercialism in Politics," Controller Bird Coler of New York tells, in incisive phrase, some of the secrets of "practical politics."

The boss is a merchant. He sells legislation, licenses, exemptions and other favors to individuals and corporations.

There is no partisanship in commercial politics. The two bosses understand each other perfectly. "This style of politics," says Mr. Coler, "to succeed requires an appearance of intense partisanship and thorough organization. There must be parties, factions and leaders, outwardly opposed and antagonistic at all times, but secretly understanding one another and working in harmony toward certain definite ends. The chances of success of such a combination are always increased and preliminary expenses reduced when one leader, in the name of his party, controls a state, and the opposing leader, in the name of his organization, controls a great city or other subdivision of that state. Then corporate and industrial interests not in politics 'must do business,' that is, arrange for legislation and official favor with both leaders or parties."

This is the whole story of commercial politics. With variations, it is true in almost every state and city in the country.

ORGANIZING FOR CIVIC WORK

A meeting will be held in the parlors of the Wednesday Club, Y. M. C. A. building, on Nov. 14 to organize a St. Louis branch of the American League for Civic Improvement.

This movement should have the hearty support of clubs, guilds, associations and citizens.

An organization of this kind can do much more effective public work than any individual or number of individuals can do singly. Designed especially for the study and application of methods of civic work it exists for that alone. No other duties claim attention or distract the mind. No private interest infects it. It is entirely public in character and purpose.

An important advantage of the proposed organization is that which flows from its affiliation with similar leagues in other cities. The exchange of ideas among these clubs cannot but result in the best available proposals for civic improvement. The experience of one city can be readily made known to all the others, and each can profit by the successes and failures elsewhere.

The league should be looked to as an information bureau by individual citizens. It often happens that the individual observes municipal failures and neglected duties which he would gladly have corrected but does not know how to proceed. The league will supply information and direction in such cases or, itself, undertake to seek a remedy.

This work is much needed in St. Louis at this time. Citizens must organize promptly and work as one man. The local branch of the American League has special advantages which should attract all public-spirited men and women.

The New York election was so severe a rebuke to the ice trust that Congress may easily infer a popular dislike of other trusts.

◆◆◆

THE FEMININE FACTOR.

One of the most hopeful signs in public affairs is the energetic, intelligent participation of women in political and social work.

In Omaha 9000 women voted for school commissioners at the recent election.

In New York women organized and did splendid work for the cause of good morals and for a decent administration of the police department.

In New Orleans, where they have the franchise in matters relating to taxation, they have showed that they must be reckoned with, and their position is not in the least doubt.

In New Zealand women possess and freely exercise all the right of citizenship. Politically there is no distinction of sex.

But it is not in casting a ballot that women are most active. They are especially in evidence in municipal work, where their assistance is gladly accepted by their brothers, who invariably find it valuable. In New York, Philadelphia and Chicago the question, "What will the women do?" is already receiving anxious consideration by the politicians who realize that a woman's influence cannot be bought, wholesale or retail.

In St. Louis the approach of the World's Fair has stimulated the interest of the clubs, and organizations are already forming in which women will be at least an equal force with men.

The greatest need of the world at this time is the feminine element. Iago's notion that woman's business was to suckle brats and chronicle small beer is outgrown and abandoned. We are learning that it is not the individual man or the individual woman that is the real factor in progress, but the man and woman, making one—a unity, not a unit, is the final term of social life. We are realizing the need and the supply will surely answer.

It isn't a question of ballots which may be bought. It is a matter of substantial human influence exercised in countless directions. Women are awakening to their new duties and responsibility in the common interests of society.

Section 1763 of the General Ordinances provides that a printed copy of ordinance No. 16,578 shall be posted in every street car in St. Louis. The ordinance referred to tells at what corners of streets cars shall stop and provides that all cars shall stop at such corners if signaled by persons desiring to board or get off. The penalty for not posting such ordinance in cars is $100 per car per day. Who has seen such ordinance posted in a car?

A WINNING ISSUE.

In the concentration of a popular interest in the New York election the political revolution in Cuyahoga County, which includes Cleveland, the home of Senator Hanna, has been overlooked.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson injected a live issue into Cuyahoga County politics—the equalization of taxation. His board of assessors added $20,000,000 to the assessment of franchised corporations in Cleveland and has begun proceedings to raise the assessment of large land holdings. He tried but failed to persuade the Ohio state board of railroad tax apportionment to raise the assessment of steam roads in the state to an equality with that of other property. He expects to carry the fight into the courts by mandamus proceedings.

Mayor Johnson personally conducted Cuyahoga County and Cleveland campaigns. He practically named the county and legislative ticket and wrote the platform. He held tent meetings.

The result of the campaign was a remarkable victory. Cuyahoga County was a Republican stronghold, with a normal majority of 7000, but the Democratic candidates won on the equal tax platform by majorities ranging from 3000 to 6000.

The only real issue in state government is the tax issue—honest and economical government which will keep down taxes and distribute them justly.

Mayor Johnson has shown what can be done when the equal tax issue is squarely presented to the people. It is a winning issue. The party whose administration persists in discriminating taxation is in danger of defeat.

The anti-machine forces in Pennsylvania and Philadelphia are not discouraged. The majority of the machine candidates was 150,000 less than the Republican majority in preceding elections. The McKinley majority of 123,000 in Philadelphia was cut down to 35,000 for state officers. The reformers look upon the result of their campaign as substantial progress. Another strenuous fight will probably overthrow the machine.

"The Cry of the Children."

In the "concentration camps" of South Africa 576 Boer children died in June, 1124 in July, 1545 in August, 1964 in September. "The Cry of the Children," written half a century ago by Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett Browning to denounce child labor in factories, closes with a stanza fitting quite as well this later slaughter of the innocents:

They look up with their pale and shrunken faces,
  And their look is dread to see,
For they mind you of their angels in high places,
  With eyes turned on Deity.
"How long," they say, "how long, O cruel nation,
  Will you stand, to move the world, on a child's heart—
Stifle down with a mailed heel its palpitation,
  And tread onward to your throne amid the mart?
Our blood splashes upward, O gold-heaper,
  And your purple shows your path;
But the child's sob in the silence curses deeper
  Than the strong man in his wrath."

Beranger's Coat.

I.

Beranger, a French gentleman of note,
  Whose style was very smooth and soft and mellow,
Once wrote a touching poem to his coat,
  Because he couldn't touch some friendly fellow,
Or couldn't get the price, for what he wrote,
  To buy another. Like a worn umbrella
That ancient garment clung to poor Beranger,
Till he was filled with grief, despair and anger.

II.

I said Be-rang-er. Had I said Be-ran-ger,
("Long a,") perhaps I might have hit the mark;
But to the Gallic lingo I'm a stranger,
  And therefore am completely in the dark
As to pronunciation. There is danger
  Some learned gentleman may whisper "Hark!"
And tell me I should call the poet Ber-an-ger—
Accent the antepenult, as in "derringer."

III.

"But, any-way," as Bobby Gaylor said,
  How many times! the poet's touching verses
Teach us, who never feel the want of bread
  Or lack of money—which by far the worse is—
That, whatsoever dangers we may dread,
  Whatever hope the eager fancy nurses,
Though we of riches may not have a bank full,
Much still remains for which we should be thankful.

IV.

Beranger had a coat. Although a bad one—
  Old, faded, sleek and worn in every part—
The bard was very grateful that he had one,
  And pressed it ever closer to his heart.
And so we find there's much in life to glad one—
  Love, music, (ragtime) poesy and art—
And I, for one, am not disposed to quarrel
With fate; nor did Beranger. See the moral?

HOW THE SULTAN WORSHIPS.

In "The Private Life of the Sultan," translated by Arthur Hornblow and published by the Appletons, Georges Dorys, the author, tells of the annual ceremony—adoration of the sacred relics—at which Abdul Hamid, the Grand Turk, appears.

"In the vast hall of the sanctuary, in which float rare perfumes from the burning censers, the Sultain raises with his own hands the sumptuous shawls masking the cloak of the prophet. During this time choristers and reciters chant sacred texts. Then, at a sign from his majesty, the grand vizier, the Sheik-ul-Islam, and other high functionaries pass one by one before the sovereign. Each receives from his hands a scarf, on which is written a verse from the Koran, and which has just been sanctified by contact with the holy relic.

"After the ministers and officials comes the turn of the imperial princess of the Valide Sultans, and the ladies of the harem, who arrived long before his majesty.

"At the close of the ceremony, during the entire time of which the Sultan has not ceased for a moment watching the movements and scrutinizing the faces of those around him—for fear of an attack does not leave him even in sanctuary—Abdul Hamid withdraws to the Bagdad pavilion, where he has presents of money distributed to his guards.

"Soon afterward, 21 guns having announced to the faithful the end of the fifteenth day of Ramazan, the sovereign durerally stays at Top-Capou for iftar (dinner which terminates the day of fasting during the month of Ramazan), and later in the evening returns to Yildiz, but with far greater haste than when he came."

CLEVER LITTLE STORIES.

It is said that the Norman peasants hit upon a happy scheme of fleecing Guy de Maupassant, who once maintained near his home at Etretat a rabbit warren of a few acres. They used to plant choice vegetables and rare shrubs in the adjoining fields, and every year Maupassant had to pay heavily for the damage done by his rabbits. After a few years he got tired of this sort of thing. He computed that the few rabbits he shot cost him about $20 apiece, which was rather too much even for an enthusiastic sportsman to pay. So he determined to destroy his game preserve. There were only four or five burrows in the inclosure, and a few ferrets soon dislodged all the inhabitants. One night after the rabbits had been destroyed the writer happened to visit his former preserve and detected a man skulking along under the trees with a large bag slung over his shoulder. Maupassant supposed that the man had come to steal wood and challenged him. The supposed thief took to his heels, leaving behind him his bag, which was found to be filled with rabbits of both sexes. The man was an honest neighbor, who, shrewdly reasoning that there could be no damages if there were no rabbits, had thought it advisable to restock the warren himself.

While in the lighthouse service Read-Admiral Robley D. Evans found that most of the keepers of lighthouses in Virginian waters were colored men put in office by Gen. Mahone and his folllowers. Many of them had to be removed, generally because they would go to sleep and neglect their lights. "One of them I had to remove for a very curious offense," says Admiral Evans; "or, rather, he removed himself when he found I was going to do it. I visited the station where he was on watch and was inspecting when I noticed that he followed me about, spitting frequently when he thought I was not observing him. I learned from the principal keeper, a colored Methodist minister, that the fellow was chewing herbs and spitting around me as a hoodoo to prevent me from reporting the various irregularities I discovered. When he found that I had reported them all and asked his removal as well he jumped overboard and was not seen again."

Once a distinguished Russian grand duke found himself charged 20 francs apiece for hothouse peaches at a cafe in Paris. "Are hothouse peaches so scarce, then, even in midwinter?" he asked. "No," replied the maitre d'hotel, "but grand dukes are."

Whether it is dignified for a man to carry a brown-paper bundle in the street depends a lot on whether it is his wife's or a pretty woman's he is walkin with.

SAVED HIS EARS.

A prisoner was once condemned by the late ameer of Afghanistan to have his ears sliced off quite as a minor punishment. He had a powerful friend, however, who was much attached to him. This friend begged the ameer, in duly submissive tones, to allow him to perform the operation, a favor which was granted. However, the amateur begged the ameer to show him what portion of each ear he wished to be removed. The ameer accordingly touched them lightly. Whereupon the ingenious and courageous person proceeded to quote a passage in the koran which said that anything touched by the representative of the Almighty became sacred. The despot smiled grimly and forgave them both.

NOISE OF ANIMALS.

The roar of the lion can be heard further than the sound of any other living creature. Next comes the cry of the hyena and then the hoot of the owl; after these the panther and the jackal. The donkey can be heard fifty times further than the horse.

Strange as it may seem, the cry of a hare can be heard further than that of either the cat or dog.

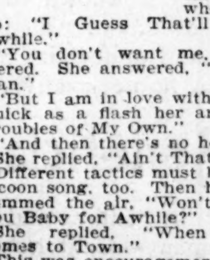
A RAGTIME FLIRTATION.

A ragtime conversation is the latest. This last addition to the ragtime accomplishments of St. Louis was made possible by a flirtation on a Suburban street car the other day. It was before 5 o'clock, and the car was not crowded. A young lady entered with a roll of music. It embraced most all of the latest "hits," with a few of the old favorites. She was going to be strictly up-to-date.

A young man came in and sat just opposite her. The car had not gone far when he began to cast goo-goo eyes in her direction. Thinking he was sufficiently encouraged, he wrote a tiny note and threw it over in her seat. He was gratified to see her pick it up. It read: "Would like to get acquainted with you."

He watched her open the music. She looked over the lot and put one piece on top. He did not catch on. She opened it wider, and held it up for him to see the title of the song, it was "You'll Get All that's A-Coming to You."

He was determined to follow it up. He wrote down, "When?" and threw it over.



A moment's hesitation and another piece was on top. "I'd Leave My Happy Home For You."

This was too much; he didn't take time to write, but leaned over and said, "Do you really mean it? Why, I would give all the world for just one"—

But before he could finish her answer was there—"I Don't Like No Cheap Man."

He had not recovered from the shock when this one came up: "I Guess That'll Hold You for Awhile."

"You don't want me, then," he stammered. She answered, "I Want a Filipino Man."

"But I am in love with you," he pleaded. Quick as a flash her answer came, "I've Troubles of My Own."

"And then there's no hope?"

She replied, "Ain't That a Shame?"

Different tactics must be tried. He knew a coon song, too. Then he leaned over and hummed the air, "Won't You Let Me Call You Baby for Awhile?"

She replied, "When Mr. Shakspeare Comes to Town."

This was encouragement. "Won't you let me sit beside you?" "Go Way Back and Sit Down," she answered, and then put on the finishing touches, "Mr. Johnson, Turn Me Loose."

He was soon on his way back where the last three seats are reserved for smokers only.

A BOILER THAT TOOK ITS TIME.

This is the story of a boiler that exploded gradually. John McLaren, an aged negro, told it in a cross-examination before Judge Zachritz of the Circuit Court a few days ago.

"Well, sah," said McLaren, "I'se a cook an' I was a-cookin' when de boilah busted. But I was upstairs, sah, not in de basement when the trouble begin.

"You see, missus thought it wasn't wahm enough in de house and she sent me down to see what is de mattah wid de flah.

"I went down, so I did, and deah was de boilah rade hot to de top.

"I could not go neah it 'cause it was too hot. So I stood a bit off and looked at it.

"Deah was de gauge and dat said dey wan't no watah in de boilah, and I was worried, sah."

"How near were you to the boiler all this time?" asked the attorney.

"How neah, sah?" replied old John. "Well, I was two foot from de gauge an' de gauge was two foot from de boilah."

"And you stood there when the boiler exploded?"

"When it busted? O, no, sah; I didn't do that."

"Well, that was when it exploded, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sah."

"And you were there?"

"Yes, sah."

"Then how is it you weren't there when the boiler exploded?"

"'Case I run, sah. I heah dat boilah 'gin to crack, sah, and den I run up de stairs 'foah it bust. If I didn't how you think I be heah, sah? That's it. I tell de truf."

HO, BILL!

All day in the Post-Dispatch linotype room, with its 16 big typesetting machines, a roar fills the air. It is made up of whirr, bang and clash, as the electromotors spin overhead, the belts go on their never-ceasing rounds, and the steel arms that distribute the type matrices rise and fall, clutching and releasing bunches of brass with the ease and dexterity of human hands.

Amid the metallic roar is a continuous rattle of human voices. Orders and replies must be shouted. As in a battle, the word spoken in an ordinary tone is lost. All is bustle and orderly uproar.

And punctuating this atmosphere of sound waves, at frequent intervals, the sharp cry of "Ho, Bill!" catches the ear as a bugle note. It is quick, impatient, peremptory.

But it rarely has to be repeated. The genius of the linotype, a small, pale youth, with a poet's eyes, but a pugilist's biceps, is on the spot almost as soon as the cry goes up. With practiced vision he sees at a glance what is wrong. Like a bank cashier who knows by heart the safe's combination, he releases a part here, tightens one there, jerks a lever, or shakes a matrix box, and the huge machine is "good" once more. It works. He passes on to the next, at the everrecurring cry of "Ho Bill!"

Imperturbable, ubiquitous, exact, untiring, he is the deus ex machina, without whose constant aid things would come to a standstill.

Kipling has sung the song of steam and showed us the poetry in the life of many a craftsman. It would doubtless be the emphatic opinion of Machinist Bill that there is no poetry in his daily round. But is he not mistaken?

A TRUE STORY.

BEWARE OF THE DOG.

Out in Glendale, in St. Louis County, which is touched by both the Frisco and the Missouri Pacific railroads, there is not a big population, and the two railroads have a joint depot.

This depot is one in name only. It is a private residence and it stands a distance back from either track. About all the agent has to do is to sell tickets. The agent is a woman, and business is never so brisk as it is down at the Union Station in the city.

A few days ago a lady who had only recently moved from St. Louis to Glendale had occasion to pay a visit to the city. She wanted to buy a ticket, and after she located the depot she started up to the private residence to buy it.

When she reached the gate she lifted the latch and started in. Then a sign, full three feet long, on a board painted white, and in large black letters, met her gaze. "Beware of the dog," the sign said.

The station agent missed a sale and the railroad company may have missed a fare, though the lady paid her visit and her fare, just the same.

Ragtime.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Much has been said lately of ragtime, most of which has been very wide of the mark. Big and little guns have been leveled at the words without any apparent conception of what they mean. The word "rag" was long ago applied to a dance, a regular double-shuffle, pigeon-wing, hoe-down. To music or to patting. It was long afterward applied to the music used for such dance—especially when much syncopated and now syncopations are the distinguishing characteristics of ragtime, regardless of whether the music is two by four—Jack and Jill stuff, or as heavy as the appasianatti of Beethoven.

If ragtime is bad form, the masters were very great sinners. Who will say that the famous "rags" of Schuman should be suppressed?

There is much self deception in the intense love many have for the heaviest classics. If you will assemble an audience of ultra-classic advocates to hear a piano recital from the masters and at the end let it be announced that an old manuscript of Bach, long lost and never published would be played, then let Scott Joplin behind the scenes play his "Maple Leaf Rag" or "Sunflower Slow Rag" and you will hear a storm of applause. There will be a regular stampede to register the delight and admiration of that audience.

Ragtime, like Banquo's ghost, will not down. Good ragtime will live to bury two or three generations of critics. As well try to banish dotted notes from Scotland. If the word is offensive let the next good "rag" be called "Elite Syncopations."

St. Louis. JOHN STARK.

Helen Gould

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Would you kindly publish the inclosed little poem as a loving tribute to Miss Helen Gould. F. DE KRESSIER BRADY.

Thou art America's most cherished daughter,
  Whose name is known and praised by all
In works of charity you never falter,
  But nobly respond to every call.

Thousands have reason to bless thy name
  And wish thee happiness and health;
For many a poor, struggling artist's fame
  Was won through a gift from thy wealth.

And many orphans and aged people's homes
  Are supplied with comforts and care;
Sheltering poor souls otherwise forced to roam,
  Had you not given to them a share.

No wonder the whole nation loves you,
  For with you none can compare;
St. Louis feels honored that one so true
  Will be manager at her great Fair.

Sunday Peace Destroyed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

God has given to all of us a day of rest for the body and the mind, the soul and the conscience. God calls it the Sabbath, or Rest Day. We call it Sunday or the Lord's Day. And we all need it, and have a right to it. And no one has any right to take it from us. But my neighbors steal it away from me. I am a grocer, and on Sunday mornings my neighbors come from all directions to buy things for the Sunday's breakfast or dinner. And they keep dropping in all the forenoon until 12 or 1 o'clock. I cannot leave the store, for I should lose their custom. So I cannot go to church, nor can my clerks go.

My neighbors compel us to break the Sabbath day. They could get their things Saturday night for we keep open until 10 o'clock. But no, they must keep us behind the counter one-half of Sunday. Many of them go to church themselves, and there they join in prayers for us "miserable sinners," who break the Sabbath day. I wonder who will get the punishment for this breaking when the great day of account shall come. Will it be our masters, the neighbors, who compel us to stand behind the counter on Sunday, or will it be us, the grocers, who are more than anxious to quit this Sunday business?

St. Louis. A TIRED GROCER.

Remedy for Diphtheria.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Noting the frightful deaths in your city, of diphtheritic patients who had been treated with antitoxin, I write to advise your readers of the fact that in Ladiesburg, Md., John J. Liggett, a regular medical practitioner, has treated upwards of 250 cases of diphtheria in the past seven years, without losing a single patient. The remedy employed is extremely simple: Flower of sulphur, 10 grains; powdered willow charcoal, 36 grains; sufficient water to make an ounce; an equal quantity of simple syrup is added, making two ounces of the mixture. This remedy is given every half hour, retained in the mouth for a time, then swallowed. Before taking the medicine an antiseptic gargle should be used. The patients are kept in a warm room.

It is to be hoped that physicians generally will write to Dr. Liggett, ascertain his experience and use the treatment. My attention was called to his treatment and upon writing to him I received the most courteous consideration. He utterly disclaims credit for the marvelous results achieved in his own practice, frankly admitting that he has but modified another physician's prescription, obtaining better results. Called into consultation by other physicians, he states that the treatment outlined has proven efficacious in every case. Prior to the use of this prescription Dr. Liggett shared the concern shown by all true physicians when the sickness of children is diagnosed as diphtheria.

Would it not be in order for your readers to call the attention of their family physicians to this subject. Like all true disciples of the healing art, Dr. Liggett exacts no fee for diffusing knowledge of the treatment, which he has used so successfully in his own practice. EDWARD STERN,
Philadelphia, Pa. 4244 Chestnut street.

Boer vs. Briton.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Replying to "Canuck": The whole world knows that the Boer government made concession after concession to the demands of the British government and tried every honorable means to prevent the war. Although I believe "Canuck's" figures as to rate of taxation are exaggerated, whatever stringent restrictions the Boers first imposed on those whom they knew were plotting to get possession of the Transvaal were excusable in the light of their previous experience. Still, though well knowing that those who were clamoring the loudest for better terms of naturalization had no intention of becoming bona fide, loyal citizens of their republic, they conceded one demand after another. But Rhodes, Chamberlain, the mine-owners and the jingoes didn't want concessions. They wanted to fool the English people at home into the war, believing they could wipe out the Boers in three months and get possession of their country, with its valuable mines, etc.

It is remarkable how suddenly they became inflated with virtuous indignation against the Boers, when the value of the mines became apparent, for their manner of conducting their affairs and for their previous treatment of the black savages. This latter is a specimen of the flimsy pretexts for making a war of invasion. It is a case of the thief crying "stop thief." I have seen letters from English and Scotch working miners in the Transvaal to an English newspaper bearing the impress of truth and defending the Boers. The preponderance of evidence from impartial observers is in favor of the justice of the Boer's cause, and if any further evidence is needed, I still maintain that it is found in the brave and determined fight these people are making against such fearful odds.

Even if all said against them was true, it is no excuse for the slow murder of their women and children, which even the conservative English newspapers are now decrying. CELTIC-AMERICAN.

"A Writer's Request of His Master."

(Introduction to Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke's "The Ruling Passion.")

Lord, let me never tag a moral to a story, nor tell a story without a meaning. Make me respect my material so much that I dare not slight my work. Help me to deal very honestly with words and with people because they are both alive. Show me that as in a river so in a writing, clearness is the best quality, and a little that is pure is worth more than much that is mixed. Teach me to see local color without being blind to the inner light. Give me an ideal that will stand the strain of weaving into human stuff on the loom of the real. Keep me from caring more for books than for folks, for art than for life. Steady me to do my full stint of work as well as I can; and when that is done stop me, pay what wages thou wilt and help me to say, from a quiet heart, a grateful Amen.

ONCE ERRAND BOY NOW MILLIONAIRE

B. H. KROGER SUPPLIES TWO CITIES WITH CHEAP BREAD.

◆ ◆ ◆

ADVICE OF THE BREAD MAN.

Make money for your employer and he will make money for you.

Always save part of your income, if only 25 cents a week; and then watch it grow. In a few years it will start you in business or fit you for a profession.

Don't try gambling games; they have you beaten before you put your money up.

Never get into a lawsuit; you lose if you win.

When you start in business get the confidence of your banker. Ask his advice frequently. It costs you nothing and is valuable.

Never tell a man what you think of him unless it is something good.

◆ ◆ ◆

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—To grim determination is attributed by B. H. Kroger, the prominent place he has attained in the commercial world. His supplying New York and Cincinnati with the finest bread at half regular rates and making money is only one of his successes. Kroger is sole owner of 40 retail groceries in Cincinnati, and of a wholesale grocery and importing house. He gives supervision to all.

Kroger started at 13 as errand boy at $2.50 a week, and now, at 41, is worth over $1,000,000. After a year as errand boy he went to a farm for two years at $4 a month. On his return to Cincinnati he sold tea and coffee on commission and saved money.

In July, 1883, he and another man invested $350 each, all they had, in a tea store. More than half the capital was put into a horse and showy delivery wagon, which one day went over the bank into the canal, the outfit proving a total loss.

The next year a flood destroyed $350 worth of goods. But Kroger had confidence, and in July, 1884, paid his partner $1510 to retire. From that time his success was phenomenal.

Kroger is smooth-shaven and looks like a young man. His capacity for work is practically unlimited. Kroger decides quick as a wink every proposition submitted. He drives a fast horse, never bets on anything, and all his stores are up to the hour.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL AGAIN

Supply of Teachers So Reduced That the Desirability of the Normal Is Apparent.

Supt. Soldan proposes to have the Normal School re-established, for the purpose of reinforcing the supply of teachers. The school was closed because the supply of eligible teachers was growing too large. Since that time the number of eligibles has been greatly reduced.

The William McKinley High School will be the name of the new branch high school to be built in South St. Louis. Plans for the new structure, which will cost not more than $150,000, are to be drawn up soon.

Changes in the bookkeeping system of the board will be recommended. The exact form which these will take is to be determined by the secretary, treasurer and auditor of the board. The joint committee to which the report of D. B. Kribben, the expert appointed by the mayor to review the board's books, was made, has decided that changes in the system are necessary and will so report at Tuesday night's board meeting.

THE CONSUMPTION BILL.

Probability That It Will Be Passed by the Council Tuesday Evening.

Councilman Jeremiah Sheehan, chairman of the committee on sanitary affairs, believes that the Council will pass Health Commissioner Starkloff's consumption bill at its meeting Tuesday evening.

"The protest of the St. Louis Medical Society," Mr. Sheehan says, "came too late to deserve recognition.

"If the members of the St. Louis Medical Society wished to object to the bill, why did they not come before the committee at its hearing last week, of which ample notice was given. Only three physicians not in the city's employ attended this meeting. The preponderance of testimony was in favor of the bill, and the committee recommended its passage.

"Then the medical society comes along and asks the Council to turn down the sanitary committee and defeat the bill.

"I believe the bill is a good one, and if the other members of the committee feel as I do about this matter, we shall strengthen our former recommendation of the bill and carry it through."

Health Commissioner Starkloff, author of the bill, is now out of the city on a hunting trip. Assistant Commissioner Francis is in charge in his absence.

IT MAKES WOMEN HAPPY.

"I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications," writes Mrs. O. N. Fisher, of 1861 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. "I was constantly going to see a physician or purchasing medicine. My husband at last induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After taking one bottle and following your advice I was so encouraged that I took five more bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I continued taking it and felt that I was improving faster than at first. I am not now cross and irritable, and I have a good color in my face; have also gained ten pounds in weight and one thousand pounds of comfort, for I am a new woman once more, and your advice and your 'Favorite Prescription' is the cause of it."

Robert Quinlivan, who died at the City Dispensary Nov. 3 and was buried in potter's field, was disinterred Monday and his remains were conveyed to Calvary Cemetery, where they were reinterred.

This was done under the instructions of his son, Michael P. Quinlivan of 3635 Lucky street, who had not heard of his father's illness and had not seen him for 15 years.

JAIL FOR TWO NEWSPAPER MEN.

Judge Hanecy's Decision in the Chicago Contempt Case.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—On a charge of contempt of court Judge Hanecy today sentenced Andrew M. Lawrence, managing editor of the Chicago American, to 40 days in the county jail. The sentence of H. S. Canfield, who wrote the article objectionable to the court, was fixed at 30 days in jail. The cases against S. S. Carvalho, financial manager of the paper, and John C. Hammond, assistant city editor, were dismissed.

Judge Hanecy declared that the cases against W. R. Hearst, majority stockholder of the paper; Homer Davenport, cartoonist, and Clare Briggs, also a cartoonist, would pend until such time as these respondents could be brought into court by the sheriff.

Former Gov. Altgeld, one of counsel for the respondents, entered a formal exception to the decision. "This case, I may say," the court remarked, "is not appealable. You may file a bill of exceptions for a writ of error, however. I am willing to delay the serving of papers on Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Canfield till you have drawn your bill."

"We do not feel that we have any favors coming from this court," Mr. Altgeld answered. "We are much obliged."

The article in the American upon which the proceedings in contempt were based was a criticism of the court's decision on an application for the forfeiture of the charter of the People's Gaslight and Coke Company.

Judge Hanecy said if the matter published were allowed to go unnoticed by the court it paved the way for other attacks, and that the judiciary, if not held in respect, would fall, with all democratic government. The article, the court declared, was not merely an attack on the people and on the court, but a bold threat to every other court. It should, therefore, unot go unpunished.

A few minutes after the rendering of the decision and the imposition of the sentence as to Lawrence and Canfield, Judge Dunne, upon application, issued a writ of habeas corpus as to them, returnable immediately.

Transit Car Smashes Wagon.

A car on the Bellefontaine division of the transit company at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning struck a wagon driven by Edward Morris of 3233 Morgan street at Grand avenue and Halliday street. The wagon was damaged $50. No one was injured.

THE BOY PAINTED HIMSELF.

But He Got His Father and His Friend Into the Police Court by It.

John Austin of 417 Lami street has a 3-year-old son with artistic tendencies that got the boy, the father and Edward Heberer into trouble Monday.

Heberer and Austin are old friends. Austin employed Heberer to paint his houses. Austin's little son employed himself as connoisseur, and seating himself on a keg of white lead, threw out to the painter an occasional hint on "tone," "effects," "harmony," etc. The boy also tried his hand at mixing. He got into a pot of yellow and a pot of blue, and at diner time Master Austin presented himself at table with a striking resemblance to the spotted leopard, only the spots were green.

Austin senior was very angry, and told Heberer he had expressly stipulated in the contract that it was the house and not his family that he wished painted. Heberer denied painting the boy, and the question was left to Master Austin. The boy blamed Heberer, and Heberer and Austin did a little "mixing" on their own account. The police came and arrested both men. They were tried in the City Hall police court and both were discharged.

DYED HER HAIR FOR DISGUISE.

Maid at Hotel Beers Decamps With Valuables of Guest.

When Marion Laurintius was working at the Hotel Beers her hair was as black as midnight.

She left the hotel after she had looted the room of Mrs. Lillie B. Schrader and carried away jewels and clothing to the value of $300, and when she was arrested Monday night at 113 North Twelfth street her hair had been died an unmistakable red, in the hope of disguising herself.

Mrs. Schrader's home is in California, and she came to St. Louis to visit friends and relatives. She is a cousin of Mullanphy Cates, who accompanied her to the warrant office Tuesday morning, where a warrant for the girl's arrest was obtained.

Last Thursday night while Mrs. Schrader was absent from her room Marion Laurintius entered and took several valuable dresses and a watch and chain valued at $65. The absence of Mrs. Schrader's valuables and the girl were discovered simultaneously.

Detective Field was detailed on the case, and arrested the girl, who admitted that she had taken the property and surrendered a pawn ticket for the watch.

Single Tax League Meeting.—The St. Louis Single Tax League will hold its regular semi-monthly public meeting on Wednesday evening at the Aschenbroedel Club Hall, 604 Market street, at 8 o'clock. The league is raising a fund of several hundred dollars to assist those pushing the cause in Ohio and Colorado. In Ohio Tom L. Johnson has gained a second natoble victory in the election of the entire ticket, including 14 members of the Legislature, at Cleveland and Cuyahoga county, which has greatly stimulated the work in that state, and in Colorado a constitutional amendment is pending, to be voted on next fall, giving local option in taxation.

Cold in Chest

Omega Oil You hear a good deal of the great progress in medical science, but there hasn't been so much progress after all. The doctors have not been able to improve on many of the simple old remedies used during the last hundred years. Every mother knows that old-fashioned sweet oil is a good thing to rub on the nose, throat and chest for a cold, and a doctor can't prescribe anything better or safer except Omega Oil. This Oil does all that sweet oil can do, and besides that it contains other ingredients that check and cure a cold in a wonderfully short time. It can be used on children with perfect safety, as it does not blister. A bottle in the house all the time may save a life or a doctor's bill.

Omega Oil is good for everything a liniment ought to be good for.

FORBES KNOCKED DAUGHERTY OUT

Terrific Right Swing Put Danny to Sleep in the Second Round.

Danny Daugherty was knocked out at the West End Coliseum last night by Harry Forbes.

No prize fighter was ever reduced to a state of insensibility more quickly or more effectively than was Daugherty when Forbes' right crashed with terrific force on his jaw, about half way through the second round of the battle.

Daugherty was rushing in on Forbes at the time, exchanging blows in a give-and-take entanglement, when he encountered Forbes' glove. Though he was in the act of delivering a blow himself, he was stopped off short and straightened by the force of the contact; then, trembling a moment on the perpendicular, he turned slowly around and fell prone upon his face, his head hitting the mat a sounding blow.

No cheering immediately followed the fall.

No doubt was for a moment entertained that Daugherty was wholly insensible.

The hush among the audience lasted several seconds.

During the period Forbes walked slowly to the opposite side of the ring, visibly agitated and apparently under the impression that Daugherty was seriously injured.

Stewart, the referee, rushed over to the fallen man, forgetting in his agitation to count the man out. He turned the senseless body over. Daugherty's hands flopped limply with the turn of his body and though 20 seconds had passed no signs of returning consciousness were observed.

McGovern, who was at the ring side acting as second for Daugherty, with his mind on the fight, asked Stewart to count his man out.

Stewart is said to have replied that it was a case for the doctor, not the referee.

The seconds climbed into the ring, dragged the limp form to the chair in the corner of the ring and applied smelling salts and restoratives.

In about one minute after Forbes' blow had been delivered, Daugherty recovered, and in five minutes was able to walk to his dressing room.

The blow which did the work was a right hand swing to Daugherty's jaw.

At the time it was delivered both men were strong and fighting like demons, both apparently intent on a knockout.

Neither had much the worse of the battle and the only mark on either was a slight cut over Daugherty's eye, inflicted by accidental contact with Forbes' head.

Forbes was carrying the fight to his opponent, with the latter fighting back. Forbes hit hard with his left on Daugherty's eye, the latter came back with a heavy blow at Forbes' head, which did not land squarely, and then came the knockout blow, a long, swinging right-handed blow to the jaw.

McGovern said, just before the men entered the ring: "Daugherty is not in the best condition." He seemed to be in fair shape, though he was undoubtedly lighter than Forbes. The scales balanced to a hair at 115 pounds when Forbes went on, but Daugherty could not budge the bar at that mark.

The difference was hardly material, however, and the men sized up in the ring, very evenly matched in size.

Forbes had the steam behind his blows that Daugherty seemed to lack.

At one time it appeared that Daugherty had his man in a bad place on the ropes and was hammering him well, but he could not get the blow in the right place and did not have the steam behind it to hurt badly.

The knockout was clean and the whole round, before the final blow, was Forbes'.

A small aristocracy in the little men class of pugilists was present in the ring as seconds for the men.

Attell and McGovern were working with Daugherty and Yanger was helping on Forbes' side.

All, except Yanger, were introduced to the crowd, and Terry made a short speech, in response to a general call.

Crowd Called for McGovern.

After Daugherty went down and out some suggested that McGovern get up and finish the 15 rounds with Forbes.

It appeared somewhat of an oversight on the part of the announcer that Yanger was not presented to the crowd.

Attell was introduced as the challenger of the fight and as the prospective opponent of George Dixon next Monday night.

When it remembered that Yanger and White were matched for that date the crowd imagined that the Yanger-White fight had been called off.

The management, however, states that it is only postponed one week.

Joe Stewart as referee caught the fancy of the crowd. His decision of draw in the preliminary bout between Miller and Carey of Chicago divided the house in opinion.

His method of handling the men and getting them to break without forcibly intervening was an agreeable feature. Mr. Stewart will probably officiate at the next fight at the West End Club.

TERRY M'GOVERN DESCRIBES FIGHT

The Three-Class Champion Says the Coliseum Fight Was Fast and Furious.

BY TERRY M'GOVERN.

My friend Harry Forbes put it over my sparring partner, Danny Daugherty last night in the fight at the West End Coliseum.

While both men were exchanging rights and lefts in the middle of the second round, Forbes got to Danny's jaw with an awful soak and Daugherty wailed for a minute or two.

Say, but that was a terrible jar Forbes dealt. When we got Danny back to the dressing room and rubbed him into shape, he didn't know what had happened.

"Say, Terry," he said, "where did he hit me?"

I told him and he said the last he remembered was getting a belt in the sore eye and then sleep caught up with him.

This fellow Forbes is there with both hands. I know; I ran up against it twice myself.

The fight, while it was going on, was one of the fastest and cleanest I ever saw. Both boys were out for the stuff and fought for a knockout from the start, but there was no bad blood at all. Both broke promptly when the referee called the turn and when both slipped to the canvas in a mix-up, each tried to help the other to his feet.

One thing that made the fight such a rattling one was the agreement of the boys that, if both were on their feet at the end of the fifteenth round, the affair was to be called a draw.

Neither Wanted a Draw.

Neither could stand for that draw part. Danny had his title to look after and could not afford to let Forbes even draw with him.

Forbes wanted both the championship and the big end of the purse, and he certainly hit out for it. I think the men, at least Daugherty, might not have been so brash about mixing it up under other conditions.

"TERRY" M'GOVERN.

Daugherty was too eager all the way through, even during the negotiations.

I knew he wasn't in the best shape and told him to hold off and not be so fast. He wouldn't listen to me and started out and made arrangements, winner take all.

I know that Forbes lad and knew he would be dangerous for Danny, even when my partner was at his best. I finally got Danny to agree to a 75 and 25 per cent division of the purse.

It saved him a few plunks anyway.

Daugherty was not outclassed, even though the battle didn't go but two rounds. As I said, it was one big mixup from the start, and anybody who ever saw a battle knew it could not last.

Danny about split even in the first round. Both men got home some awful wallops and Forbes opened Danny's eye.

I knew Daugherty was not in the condition Forbes was and tried to get him to stay away, but he wouldn't hear and went right on mixing it.

When the knockout came in the second both men were at it give and take. The blow that wound up the business came while both men were exchanging rights and lefts.

"Forbes Got in First."

Forbes got his in first and there you are. Had Daugherty landed first the affair was just as liable to have gone the other way.

ROUND ONE.

Both men shook hands in the center and then got their heads down and went right at it. Daugherty led first and got in a good one on Forbes' stomach, though he was a little too far off to hurt badly.

Forbes fought right up to him and, after slamming in a few which Danny blocked, got in a right and left on the head, Daugherty getting back in the same way, the men going into a clinch.

The referee shouted break and the men minded like children.

The crowd was tickled over the way they quit without any fuss. Danny led wild, and Forbes got to his head with the right, following it up with a left on the jaw. Daugherty reached Forbes' stomach again without a return, going into a clinch to avoid it.

When they broke, both men shot hot ones into the other. The boys were hitting viciously and it was a cinch something would be doing shortly.

Daugherty was fighting back all the time and, after the second clinch, rushed Forbes to the ropes and landed rights and lefts on the body and face and it looked bad for Harry for awhile.

He wasn't hurt very much, apparently, for he was able to get in a hard jolt with both hands as soon as he got away from being tangled up in the ropes.

There was a hot mixup in the center of ring just before the round ended, Forbes getting the better of it. Danny was bleeding at the eye when he went to his corner.

ROUND TWO.

The men weren't up from their chairs hardly before they were slamming each other.

How Knockout Came.

Both fought a little wild and went to the floor in a mix-up. Danny was first on his feet and helped Forbes up, both smiling, before they went at it again.

They exchanged hard with both hands and went into a clinch, still breaking at the ting a little the worst of it, but went right to his man, making a mistake, as I thought, all through the fight.

He led for Harry's face and missed, Forbes closing in, forcing Daugherty to an exchange of right and left with him. Both men let drive three or four times, when Forbes, after dazing Danny with a jolt on his bad eye, followed it up with a long right swing square on Daugherty's jaw.

It was all over. As soon as it landed I saw that. Danny dropped both hands, turned clear around, and, without his body bending, fell hard, face down, and lay there like a wet rag.

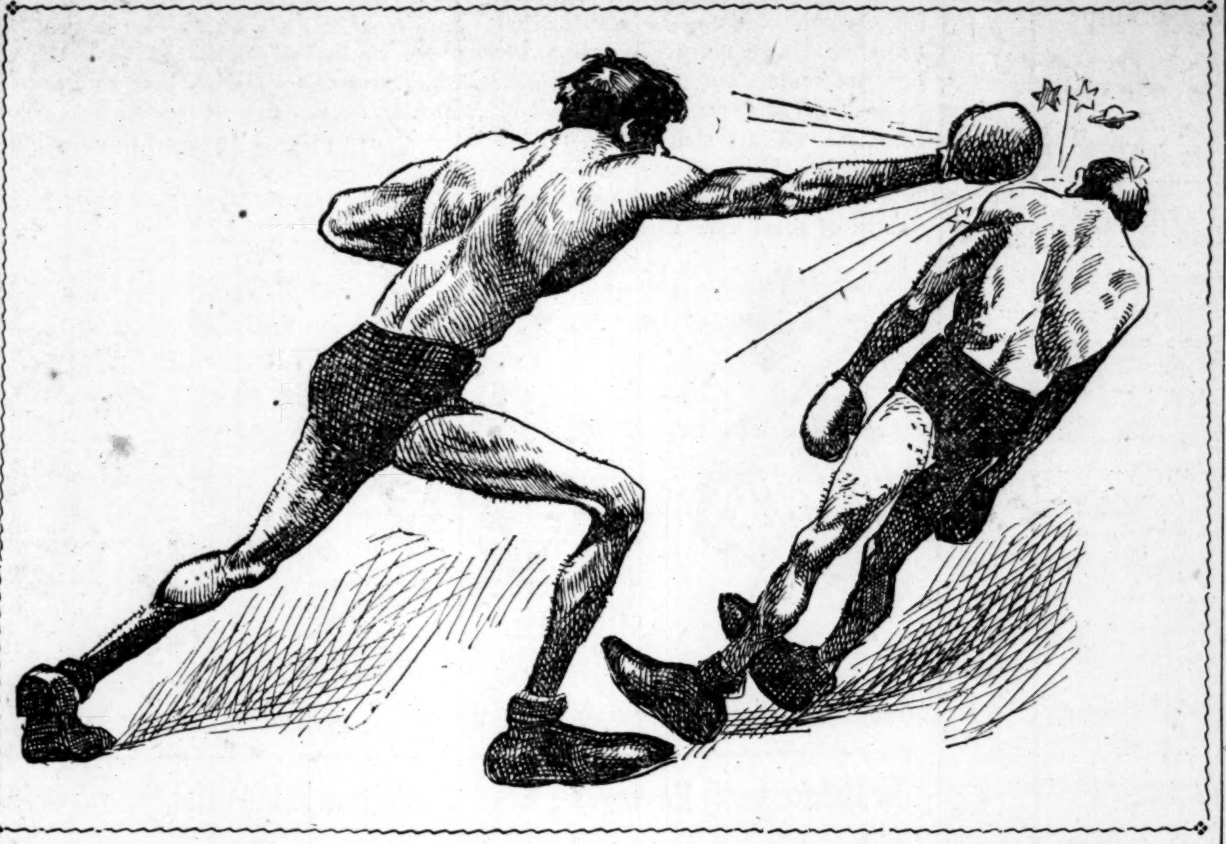
The referee went and turned him over, and I told him he'd better count him out.

"It's not a referee you want," he says, "it's a doctor."

We had to drag Danny back to his corner, and it was a minute or more before he came around.

He wasn't hurt very much; just put to sleep.

FINAL INCIDENT IN THE FORBES-DAUGHERTY BOXING CONTEST AT THE WEST END COLISEUM LAST NIGHT



BETTING ON GUS RUHLIN IMPROVES

Rush on Short End Money Wipes Out All the Jeffries Cash.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The betting on Gus Ruhlin has begun to advance a little around the sporting centers. The odds were still 10 to 4 today, but a rush of short-end money has wiped out all the Jeffries cash.

A great many wagers were placed at 10 to 5, and conservative judges of the odds are of the opinion that the men will enter the ring at a figure nearer even. Perhaps a reason for the rise in Ruhlin stock is the superb confidence in the Akron giant.

In the event of winning, Madden's protege will begin a starring tour with a play called "The Man of Iron," and in anticipation of success Ruhlin occasionally whiles a dull hour at his training quarters in perusing his part. Ruhlin is silent as to his future ring career should he win, but Jeffries, on the other hand, is outspoken.

"If I win from Ruhlin," says the champion, "and I assure you I most certainly shall, I will take on Sharkey or Fitz. It is immaterial which comes first. After these two are gone I am prepared for any of the heavy weights left. I will then take a good rest and think over my future plans."

Evenly Matched, Says Siler.

George Siler said today:

"The contestants are as evenly matched in regard to height, weight and reach as it is possible to match men in their class. And as it is a toss-up which of the two is the most scientific, and as there no question as to their being equally game, all betting on the outcome ought to be brisk. Ruhlin has had plenty of experience and he ought to make it interesting for Jeffries.

"Any person who saw the match at New York between Fitz and Ruhlin will, I believe, take the short end in this fight. The odds, 2 to 1, are false ones. Of course, I consider Jeff a great fighter and, mind you, I don't say that he will not win, but I do say that Ruhlin should not be a 2 to 1 against anybody. All in all, the battle ought to be a great one."

George Lavigne is a Ruhlin enthusiast. He said:

"I like Jeff, and I consider him a great fighter, but Ruhlin is good enough for me."

Big Fighters Not to See Bout.

None of the big fighters, with probably the exception of Tom Sharkey, will be at the ring side on Friday night when Jeffries and Ruhlin meet. Sharkey sent word some days ago from New York that he would be present, but no one has heard that he has started on the journey across the continent.

Ruhlin's work today included short sprints and many gymnasium acts. Madden refused to allow his charge to undertake any violent exercise, fearing that it would result in his being trained down too fine. Madden said today that Ruhlin could easily keep up to his present form, and he will be in first-class trim when he enters the ring.

Neither of the big men is doing much hard work. Jeffries took the long walk this afternoon, climbing up and down the Alameda County foothills. In the afternoon he sparred with his trainers, punched the bag, skipped the rope and did other light gymnasium work. His condition continues to be as nearly perfect as it is possible for a fighter to become. Should he lose Friday's battle it will not be because he has lost speed or strength.

SPEED OF 105 MILES AN HOUR.

Remarkable Speed, Which May Be Increased, Attained on a German Electric Line.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—A speed of 105 miles an hour has been attained on an electric railway between Marienfelde and Zossen. Engineers are even convinced that this speed can be increased. Running at this rate the air pressure was found to be equal to a wind force of 12 feet a second, a force which, on the German coast, has only been registered once, namely in the hurricane of Feb. 1, 1894.

WASHINGTON PLAYS ROSE POLYTECHNIC

Saturday's Game With Rolla Postponed and One With Indiana Team Substituted.

Washington University's football team management announces a change in its schedule, arrangements having been made for the Rose Polytechnic Institute to play here next Saturday, the Rolla game having been postponed until Saturday week.

The change should prove a welcome one to the local team, several of its players being in bad shape as a result of Saturday's hard battle with Central. Lehman hurt his ankle and Roberts was bumped about badly during the contest.

Rose Polytechnic's reputation has not been sent on in advance of its appearance, but it is presumed to be about in the class of the elevens which Washington has been meeting recently. Another contest should put the local men in a better defensive shape.

The postponement should serve also to fit the team better for the Rolla game.

The notable local game of the week will be that between the Christian Brothers' College and the Kirksville Osteopaths elevens Friday afternoon on the college campus. Bland is whipping his men about in hard practice, and anticipates that his team will not make the poor showing it did against Rolla. Bland says his eleven was not at its best then.

Scores show that his opinion is justified. C. B. C. downed the McKendree team 24 to 0 and Marion-Sims against the same team, in crippled condition, scored but 17 to 0. Marion-Sims, however, holds Rolla to 5 points while that eleven ran up over 10 points on Bland's men.

On its own grounds, and with the recollection of the Rolla defeat to wipe out, C. B. C. will, no doubt, show much stronger. Kirksville has one of the best, if not the first, team in the state. Bland is hopeful of holding the bone setters off, however.

Kirksville's will be the strongest team that has played in St. Louis this season. It has met most of the strong teams of Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska and has creditable records for almost all contests. Following are the results of its most important battles:

Kirksville, 0;	Nebraska, 5.
Kirksville, 5;	Kansas, 17.
Kirksville, 6;	Haskell Indians, 36.
Kirksville, 39;	Ottawa, 0.
Kirksville, 40;	Gem City College, 0.
Kirksville, 64;	Highland Park, 0.
Kirksville, 28;	Tarkio, 0.
Kirksville, 22;	Missouri, 0.

Kirksville has a team that will close up to 175 pounds average. One of the half backs, Van Dorn, weighs 220 pounds. The style of Kirksville's play through the season has been to throw its heavy men into the interference and cash around the ends of the opposing team.

Two good men play the extremities of the line, and very few teams have been able to stop the Kirksville eleven from gaining in that quarter.

The Osteopaths are enthusiastic over their eleven, and will send down a delegation of 300 rooters to cheer on the players.

St. Louis University plays Marion-Sims Saturday at Handlan Park. Delaney has the St. Louis University team in charge once more and an improvement over the lax work recently is expected. The 'varsity is hardly expected to win, as Marion-Sims is strong and is improving steadily. The eleven probably outweighs Delaney's tribe by several pounds, and its players are older and nearly all seasoned by several seasons of work.

Smith and Western will play at Alton, Saturday, and High School and Manual will battle on the same day at the college campus.

Both are interscholastic championship games and hard fights are expected.

Princeton is working up enthusiasm in anticipation of the big game between Yale and Hardvard, Saturday. While the football team works out the students on the bleachers enliven them with songs and cheers. The following are two stanzas popular with the undergraduates:

Oh, good-by, Yale, for evermore,
Your football days are surely over.
You played good ball and that is true,
But wait till we get through with you.
Good-by, Yale, for evermore.

We know the way to beat Yale, boys;
We know the way to beat Yale.
We've done it before.
We'll do it once more.
We know the way to beat Yale.

To the enthusiasts interested in the championship struggle in the east, it is regretted that Harvard and Princeton will not play together. Should Princeton defeat Yale and Harvard do the same trick, the championship would remain entirely unsettled.

While it is hardly probable that this will occur, it is not beyond the pale of possibility. The three elevens are evenly matched and any outcome is possible. Harvard is a betting favorite over Yale at 7 to 5, but the odds may be wrong.

If Yale beats Princeton Saturday the supremacy will be definitely settled in the game of the Saturday following when the Crimson and Blue meet.

Match for Vandenbroeck.

The Vandalia Athletic Club, located at Seventeenth and St. George streets, has made arangements for a fight between Kid Jenks of Denver and Oliver Vandenbroeck of St. Louis, Nov. 27, at Alhambra, Ill. The men will fight at 145 pounds for a purse of $300.

HEADS A MODEL POLICE FORCE

Maj. Sylvester of Washington, D. C., Says the World's Fair Should Be Well Policed.

The distinction of being at the head of the model police force of the United States is claimed by Maj. Richard Sylvester, chief of police of Washington, D. C., who is in St. Louis on business.

"The Washington police force is out of politics," said Major Sylvester. "The entire department is under civil service rules, and men are retired on pensions. Not a man is placed on the force who has not demonstrated his fitness, and tenure of office is determined solely by merit.

"With a population of 300,000, one-third colored, we have 631 members of the force. No man is dismissed from the force except on proved charges."

Chief Sylvester considers the question of properly policing the St. Louis World's Fair an important one. He believes that a large force of men will be needed for service on the grounds, and says that every large city in the land should detail special officers for duty on the exposition grounds.

Major Sylvester professes to feel no disturbance over reports that his place is being sought by Captain Brooks of Texas, a friend of President Roosevelt. He believes that the merit system which prevails in the Washington police regulations makes his tenure of his place a secure one.

"We shall prove that Ida Bonine killed Frank Ayres," said Chief Sylvester, in discussing a well known case soon to be tried in Washington. "The evidence will be complete, and it will be for the most part of a very sensational nature."

The Washington police chief is visiting St. Louis for the purpose of conferring with Chief Kiely over the proposed removal of the national bureau of identification from Chicago to Washington. The board of governors of the national association, of which the St. Louis chief is a member, will decide this question. Chief Sylvester is president of the national association.

THE NEW ROAD TO ST. LOUIS.

Belleville is not to have smooth sailing in the matter of prevailing on the St. Louis & Belleville Traction Co. to build its Lebanon-O'Fallon road to St. Louis by way of Belleville. In addition to the disposition of the management of the road to exact liberal concessions in the way of franchises, the people of Lebanon appear to be opposed to having their electric road to St. Louis go by Belleville. They claim that such a route is too circuitous and will take steps to influence the Traction company to give them a direct line.

In the meantime, however, the Belleville organizations are pushing their work for Belleville as the center of the east side electric system. The Commercial Club, Good Government League, Retail Merchants' Association and City Council will be represented by committees in a joint conference which is to be held in a few days. The committees of these organizations are as follows:

Commercial Club—R. W. Ropiequet, chairman; Joseph Fuess, H. Semmelroth, William Eckhardt, Jr., and William F. Kircher.

Retail Merchants' Association—Renry Reis, A. C. Dieckmann, George R. Long, Jos. Saenger, Frank Schaeffer, Emil Kirchner and Louis Kempf.

City Council—H. L. Rentchler, Fritz Winter, Martin Schnipper, James Taylor, John Gebhard, Joseph Martin and Christian Knebelkamp.

Good Government League—Dr. Julius Kohl, Jacob Ehret, Harry Powell, Valentin Rhein and Julius Heinemann.

The boy admits he is guilty, and says he cannot make restitution, as he has spent the money for clothes and in hiring carriages, in which he took his friends riding. The money was taken six weeks ago, and the loss was not discovered until a few days ago. His grandmother says she will not prosecute the boy.

The Northwest sold freely against receipts and the realizing here and at Chicago was very heavy. Trading was on a more extensive scale than usual. Realizing forced Dec. down gradually to 72⅝@72¾c at the close, a loss of 1⅛@1¼c. May was stronger and rallied from 76⅝c to 76¼@76⅜c, but liquidation spread to this option and the price went down to 75⅞c at the close, 1¼@1⅜c below yesterday.

Receipts of wheat at primary points today were 1,432,279 bu, as compared with 699,000 bu same date last year.

The government crop report, which was about as expected, would indicate a crop of about 1,359,000 bu. The report did not sustain the market any.

Chicago reported the sale of 100,000 bu to go to southwest points. The clearances were 153,000 bu and New York reported 13 loads taken for export.

December sold from 60⅛@60¼c right down to 59½c, which was bid at the close, 1⅛c loss from yesterday. May sold from 62⅞@62⅝c down to 62c at the close, a loss of 1⅛c.

Receipts of oats at primary points today were 642,273 bu, as compared with 316,000 bu same date last year.

CASH GRAIN MARKETS.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis today were 42,481 bu, compared with 34,945 bu a year ago. Of these 1814 sacks and 46 cars were local and 2 cars through, compared with 508 sacks and 42 cars local a year ago.

Wheat worked lower in sympathy with the futures. The demand was light, even from the mills, for hard wheat. No. 2 red sold this side delivered to elevator at 73⅝c and 74¼c, East Side switched. Soft wheat was off ½c and hard ½c.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis today were 44,800 bu, compared with 52,800 bu a year ago. Of these 52 cars were local and 4 cars through, compared with 52 cars local and 14 cars through the same date a year ago.

There was considerable new corn offered. The market was down from ½c to ⅝c, but the demand was not so good as yesterday. Old No. 2 mixed sold this side at 62¼@62½c and east side at 62½c. A few cars of new sold at 62c. No. 3 mixed sold at 61½c switched east side and 61½c this side. White corn was off ⅝c, selling at 63½c track, east side. Old No. 2 and No. 3 yellow sold at 62½c.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis today were 31,200 bu, compared with 41,955 bu a year ago. Of these 14 cars were local and 12 cars through, compared with 471 sacks and 22 cars local and 11 cars through the same date a year ago.

Lead and Spelter.

Receipts—Lead, 7225 pigs; shipments, 3505 pigs; spelter and zinc, slabs, 14,305; shipments, 5240. Lead steady and firm, with soft Missouri selling at $4.25@4.27½; chemical hard at $4.27½, and desilverized at $4.32½. Spelter quoted at $4.10.

Barley—Receipts, 25,513 bu; market quiet; choice worth 55@62c.

General Market Notes.

Total clearances today: Wheat, 348,000 bu; flour, 24,000 bbls; corn, 15,000 bu; wheat and flour, 456,000 bu.

W. H. Bartlett to A. C. Petri: I do not see that the government report has given us any new light on the situation. I do not believe we have raised 1,350,000,000 bu of corn, but even if we have it is not enough to go around at present prices.

A cable to a New York house from Argentine says that the prospects for wheat and linseed are very bad. Too much rain has now fallen in all the wheat provinces.

London: Wheat, off coast, nothing doing; on passage, quiet, but steady. Corn, off coast, nothing doing; on passage, quiet, but steady.

From Chicago: May wheat is 4½c over the price early in October and the December option 4½c over the low point early last month. So that while most of the wheat people are talking of a bull market yet to come, there has really been a fair bull market in the past six weeks.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Trade in wheat opened quiet today, with Dec. ¼@⅜c to ⅝@½c lower at 72⅝@72¼c on weaker cables. There were considerable offerings by commission houses and stocks here were well increased. Reports indicate that the Northwestern movement will continue heavy for some time, though there is an improved flour demand. Too copious rains were reported in Argentina, which had a slight bullish influence. What business there was early fluctuated irregularly and at the end of the first hour Dec. had gained a trifle and then sunk back to its lower opening figure gain. Local receipts were 180 cars, 26 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 1050 cars, making a total for the three points of 1230, against 1131 last week and 705 the corresponding day a year ago.

Dec. corn opened quiet, ¼@½c lower at 59⅝c to 59⅞c on lower cables. There was some selling, especially by English houses, and, though prices advanced ⅛c on small coverings, the market turning dull, Dec. declined to 59½c. Receipts were 150 cars.

Dec. oats opened ⅛@¼c lower at 39c, influenced by other grains and profit taking. Business was dull early, and mostly done in the May account. Dec. sold up ⅛c for a few moments after the opening, but went back to its opening price. Receipts were 299 cars.

Provisions were dull at the opening and sold lower on lower prices for hogs. There was some investment demand based on the poor quality of hogs, but trade was hardly large enough to establish quotations. Jan. pork, which opened unchanged at $15, declined 2½c; Jan. lard 2½c lower at $8.57½ and eased a shade. Jan. ribs were not quoted the first hour.

CORN ESTIMATE HURT STOCKS

Opening in Wall Street Was Accompanied by Sharp Declines in Western Railroads.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Opening dealings in stock were not on as large a scale as in recent days, but were well distributed.

The government estimate on the corn crop affected western railroads unfavorably and there were some sharp fractional declines in that department. This was offset by gains at other points, Metropolitan Street Railway rising 1¼ and Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Chicago Great Western about a point.

Stocks in which there was large profit-taking yesterday and also at today's opening became firmer and wiped out opening losses.

The recovery was assisted by a rise of 1⅛ in Amalgamated and an extension of 2½ of Metropolitan Street Railway's rise. Other strong features, including B. & O., Canadian Pacific, Great Northern preferred, the Hocking Valley stocks, North American, Tennessee Coal, American Locomotive and Pressed Steel Car preferred.

Before 11 o'clock there was a decline in Sugar, Amalgamated Copper and Metropolitan Street Railway of over a point and Great Northern preferred lost 2. This selling caused the standard railroad stocks to decline to the lowest, but some of the minor stocks maintained a firm front. Reactions reached a point or over in several cases. Rutland preferred lost 3.

Large buying orders appeared in the coalers and for Union Pacific preferred, causing renewed firmness all around. But few stocks rose more than a slight fraction above yesterday's close.

Erie first preferred, Erie second preferred, Union Pacific preferred and Manhattan gained 1⅝1¼. Canadian Pacific got up 2 and St. Louis & San Francisco first preferred and Hocking Valley were a point better. The market ran off again before noon, in some cases to the lowest.

Bonds were irregular.

Prices bounded up again in spots, the Eries, Union Pacific preferred, Great Northern preferred, the tractions leading. Brooklyn Transit was in large demand and touched 68½ and Met. St. Ry. 167½. New Jersey Central reacted 2 and Rubber Goods 1⅝. Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville became active and rose a point.

RUNAWAY MARKET

EXCITING SESSION ON THE LOCAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

TRADING WAS VERY HEAVY

Largely Higher Prices for Trust and Bank Stocks—United Railways Also Higher.

The stock market this morning was full of enthusiasm and a more exciting session has seldom been witnessed. There were a number of orders in broken hands and in more than one instance their bids were of a reckless nature. For instance, Mississippi Valley Trust, which closed at $459 bid yesterday, was run up and sold at $464, and from that jumped to $470, at which a sale was made, and closed at $471 bid, an advance of $12 a share over night. No reason was given for this bulge, except there were orders for the stock. There were some few issues that moved in rather narrow limits, but this was not the case with United Railways, which not only showed a recovery from yesterday's late weakness, but developed additional strength. This was due to good orders and the fact that the New York market was reported strong for St. Louis tractions, especially preferred and transits. The trading locally was heavy and right at top prices.

The feature of the session, as on yesterday, was Missouri Trust stock, which for a time held the center of the stage. So excited were brokers when trading in the particular stock that they rushed wildly at each other and the confusion was so great that the official recorder found it impossible to keep track of the trades, and only a guess can be made as to the amounts that changed hands. Another high price record was made, sales ranging from $120 to $123.50, an advance of $4.50 per share over night. Prices eased off after orders had been filled. Other trust stocks were higher and in several cases higher bids were made for bank stocks, but the trading in the latter was very light and the market without special feature.

The phenomenal advances of several of the stocks traded in at the morning session of the Stock Exchange created considerable talk among brokers and started the rumor monger on his rounds. Most of these rumors were found to be without foundation when run down. In the case of the bulge in Mississippi Valley Trust the prosperous condition of that company, heavy earnings and the carrying out of report made some time ago that the stock would touch the $500 mark before the end of the year, was given as the explanation of the big advance recorded. Mercantile and other trust stocks were advanced, it was claimed, on their merits and earnings, together with a good investment demand, money being plentiful and cheap.

The rumored changes in the Missouri Trust and the fact that the contemplated change in the presidency would probably take place at a meeting later in the day, and that ex-Gov. Stephens had been selected to succeed President John C. Wilkinson as the head of the company, was said to be responsible for the good demand that prevailed at the early session, the Stephens faction still being shy of the number of shares to give them a majority.

LOCAL MONEY MARKET

Demand for Money Again Active and Rates Firm.

The volume of business transacted at the local banks and trust companies during business hours today was large and fully up to the expectation of officials, though, as usual, the aggregate was not up to that of yesterday, Tuesday being generally an off day. Routine business was brisk, especially checking and depositing and a good general business was reported with country institutions. There was an allround good demand for money, which was in ample supply, and customers were well taken care of, all first-class paper being readily discounted at the regular rates of 5 to 7 per cent in the extreme for call and time loans.

The local clearing-house report was encouraging, the bank clearings for the day amounting to $9,824,284, as compared with $9,972,148 yesterday, while the balances were $980,872 and $985,065 respectively.

COL. HOOD WITH THE BOERS.

Son of Gen. John B. Hood Fighting British in South Africa.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 12.—John Allen Quinn, who has just returned from South Africa, says that he met there Col. Duncan Hood, son of Gen. John B. Hood, the noted confederate commander. Col. Hood, he says, is commander of a regiment of Boers, and has been a prominent figure in many of the attacks made upon the English troops during the past year and more.

Col. Duncan Hood, after the death of his father, was adopted and reared by a wealthy New York man. He was educated at West Point and was taking a course of electrical engineering when the Spanish-American war broke out. He was appointed colonel of the First Regiment of United States Volunteer Immunes, and, after the disbanding of that regiment he returned to New York and soon disappeared. Nothing was heard of him by his Texas friends and relatives until the news was brought back from South Africa by Mr. Quinn that he is commanding a regiment of Boers in the war against the English troops.

FOUND NEEDLE IN OX'S HEART

Remarkable and Unprecedented Discovery at the Chicago Stockyards.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Medical science of Chicago is astonished over the discovery of a needle in the heart of an ox killed at Swift & Co.'s packing house. It is the first foreign substance ever known to have found place in the heart of a living animal. The needle had been there for at least seven months, according to the statement of local physicians, before it was discovered. The animal seemed to enjoy the best of health at the time he was led to the slaughtering pen.

The organ, with the needle imbedded in the muscles, is now in the possession of a local medical college. It is to be taken before the Cook County Medical Association at its meeting next Wednesday night for special examination and discussion. It has been photographed and eastern colleges and associations have requested that it be sent to them for further investigation and study.

When the discovery was made several days ago the heart was taken directly to Dr. Frances Dickinson, and she examined it, in company with Dr. Evans, pathological expert of the Cook County Hospital. It was then placed in alcohol, and since has been regarded as the greatest curiosity of the age among medical men.

"The needle, after having worked its way through the animal's flesh," said Dr. Dickinson, "entered the heart at the top near the aorta. It evidently traveled through the muscular part of the heart the entire length to where it was found imbedded near the bottom. The tissues about the heart were hardened and incrusted, showing that it had been stuck there for many months. The fact that the needle worked its way through the heart by remaining in the muscles saved the ox from death. It is a remarkable discovery and probably the only one of the kind on record."

Among the "accidents" reported in Austria recently was the case of a workman who walked along the road smoking a pipe with a 50-pound bag of gunpowder on his back!

PREJUDICE GETS CHANGE OF VENUE

MRS. ADDIE RICHARDSON NOT TO BE TRIED AT SAVANNAH.

SEARCH FOR REAL MURDERER

Grandjury, It Is Said, Will Return Another Indictment for the Husband's Slayer.

SAVANNAH, Mo., Nov. 12.—Judge Burnes has granted a change of venue to Mrs. Addie L. Richardson, charged with the murder of her husband, Frank Richardson, last Christmas. Her counsel in the application alleged that his client could not get a fair trial here by reason of the prejudice against her.

It is stated that the grandjury now has evidence against the real murderer. Another indictment is daily expected. The widow was indicted for murder in the first degree at the March session of the grandjury, but no one connected with the prosecution of the case believes that Mrs. Richardson committed the deed.

Frank Richardson came home unexpectedly, and, according to the evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest, there was no one in the house aside from Mrs. Richardson and the mysterious murderer. Mrs. Richardson testified before the coroner's jury that she heard words in the hallway and that she heard the shot fired, but nothing has been learned from her that would lead to establishing the murderer's identity.

"JUST SAY IT'S MR. ROOSEVELT"

PRESIDENT DROPS IN ON HIS WIFE'S OLD NURSE.

AUNT MARY'S RED-LETTER DAY

Incident That Illustrates the Kindliness of the New Occupant of the White House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—An incident took place during President Roosevelt's return from casting his vote at Oyster Bay that strongly illustrates one phase of his character. Mr. Roosevelt stopped off on his way back and climbed a dark stairway to the second floor of the house No. 150 East Forty-eighth street, New York, to call upon the old nurse, Mrs. Mary Ledwith, who had nursed not only Mrs. Roosevelt herself when she was a baby, but all of the children of Mrs. Roosevelt and the President.

"Yes, she is here," said Mrs. Flynn, who is Aunt Mary's sister; "but I can't see who you are."

"Just say it's 'Mr. Roosevelt,' and that I want to see her please. I came up to see how she is."

Mrs. Flynn, though she had known the Roosevelts for many years, was not unnaturally a bit "flustered" by the honor of a visit from the President of the United States, with his secretary and valet and detectives waiting outside.

She ushered him into her little sitting-room and then went and acquainted the old nurse, seated in an invalid's chair in another room.

"It's the President of the United States, and he has come up to see you," said Mrs. Flynn.

"The President of the United States!" echoed Aunt Mary in amazement.

"Certainly, and he says to tell you that if you are not too ill he wants to see you."

A light dawned on the old nurse's mind.

"Oh, the President; I'll be bound now that it's nobody but Mr. Roosevelt. Why, you quite took my breath away."

And then she fixed her hair a bit, as women will, old or young, and, adjusting her glasses, announced that the President could be shown in.

Mr. Roosevelt came in smiling, and bent over the old nurse and shook her hand. Then he drew up a chair and sat down beside her. He told her how sorry he was that she was ill.

In a few minutes the bell rang again and Mrs. Roosevelt came in and took a seat on the other side of the nurse.

Mrs. Ledwith has been in Mrs. Roosevelt's family for forty-five years. She is 76 years old and has the culture that comes of much travel with refined people, besides a good deal of kindness of heart. She took care of Mrs. Roosevelt in her childhood, accompanied her abroad, and has been the right hand of the present lady of the White House in the care of her children. A few weeks ago, on her way from Oyster Bay to Washington, she was taken suddenly ill, and was carried to the home of her sister, Mrs. Flynn. As soon as she recovers sufficiently she will go back to the Roosevelts at the White House.

EXPLAIN TO FATHER DEMPSEY.

Teachers Tell Priest Women Who Called Were Not Authorized to Do So.

Representatives of the Isabella Crow Kindergarten called Monday on Father Dempsey of St. Patrick's Church, Sixth and Biddle streets, and informed him that the women who visited him last Saturday to form a class among the children of his parish were not authorized by the management of the institution to do so.

Remarks which were made by the visitors of last Saturday were resented by Fathers Dempsey and Brady, who on Sunday criticised their callers from the altar.

TURKS ARE HUMILIATED.

The Sultan Has Been Warned to Expect Grave Difficulties.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Mussulman population in Turkey, says the Constantinople correspondent of the London Times, feels acutely humiliations like the recent French demonstration. A high official has presented a report to the sultan showing that persistence in the present vicious governmental system must create formidable international difficulties.

To Explore Alaska.

Extensive explorations are about to be undertaken between the Arctic Circle and the shores of the Arctic Ocean in Alaska. The exploring party will start from Bergman, nearly one thousand miles from Sitka. Alaska is about as little known as the interior of Africa was a few years ago. A specific remedy for the cure of common ills was unknown until Hostetter's Stomach Bitters was first discovered. For fifty years it has cured all stomach and bowel complaints, and today is the most celebrated medicine in the world. The Bitters will cure indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, liver and kidney troubles, and malaria, fever and ague. Take no substitute. The genuine must have our Private Die Stamp over the neck of the bottle.

DR. BARNEY'S TEST IS DISCREDITED

MANY THINK MISS KING WAS NOT INOCULATED WITH GERMS.

THEY HAVE MADE AN AFFIDAVIT

The Physician Is the Same Who Declared He Resuscitated a Boy Who Was Already Dead.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Dr. Barney's alleged inoculation of Miss King with tuberculosis germs has not caused such a wave of praise, censure or indignation that such a feat might deserve. The truth is, as stated in these dispatches yesterday, there are those who do not accept the declarations of the doctor and the patient that the young woman was inoculated.

The couple have caused to be printed an affidavit which assumes to strengthen their case, but a careful reading develops the fact that it is simply a release of the doctor from all liability to damages or censure that might come should his contemplated experiment end disastrously.

The weakest feature of the alleged inoculation is that no one has come forward to say he saw it done.

The experiment, if honestly conducted, would be one of the most momentous in human history and unique in that it was intended to support a death dealing measure instead of a life saving one, and at the same time would be to disprove the statement of a world-famed man. No unsupported statement of an obscure person will receive full credence. It was Dr. Barney who last summer told how he revived a Brooklyn boy who "was dead, absolutely dead, as he had been under water 40 minutes," according to the doctor's quoted words.

"IT IS EDDYISM" SAYS FR. SHERMAN

CATHOLICS WARNED AGAINST TEACHINGS OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

"CRUSHES OUT ALL SYMPATHY"

"This Woman Turns God Into an Infinite and Absolute Liar," Said the Priest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—"Christian Science is a ragbag of follies—a system that is both blasphemous and damnable," said Father Thomas E. Sherman, son of Gen. W. T. Sherman, in lecturing upon that subject before an audience in Illinois Hall. "The belief is not Christian in any sense nor is there any science. I beg and beseech you all not to apply the term Christian to it. Do not abuse the beautiful name—if you would call it anything, call it Eddyism. It was conceived and founded by Mrs. Eddy, that is all the name it is deserving of."

Father Sherman described the principles upon which Mrs. Eddy's faith was founded and told of the theory of the nonexistence of the material universe which she teaches.

"According to Mrs. Eddy's teachings," said Father Sherman, "if you take an overdose of arsenic and think hard enough that it is sugar it will not harm you. She says it is the mind. On the same principle, if the majority of people had thought that the bullet which killed our beloved President was not poisonous he would not have been smitten and would still live as our chief."

Then turning to Mrs. Eddy's responsibility for spreading the doctrines of Christian Science throughout the world, Father Sherman said:

"She is the vilest of pantheists, say what you will. The whole thing is folly from beginning to end. It is all blasphemy; it must naturally lead to pessimism. She pretends the opposite, but it is not true. It also leads to dualism and manicheism, and as well to many of the other gross and exploded errors.

"Shame on that woman—miserable—but I'll spare her. Think of crushing out all sympathy as she has done. Think of destroying love and happiness and in that hallowed name—Christian. She turns God to an infinite and absolute liar."

Father Sherman then referred to the results that would follow the teaching in this city and all over the world if the doctrines were allowed to gain ground. He begged his auditors to fight it.

The lecture by Father Sherman was under the auspices of the flower booth committee of St. Vincent's bazaar, and was for the benefit of the infant asylum.

CITY NEWS.

The Baronet led last month in the CRAWFORD establishment in the amount of his sales in Ladies' Suits, and with the "BOSS" is, of course, the fair-haired boy in more senses than one! Next on the list are Mr. Mountjoy and his assistant, Mrs. McLaughlin, who show a healthy increase in their department, house furnishing goods. Next is Mr. Powers (Ladies' Hosiery and Knit Underwear); give him a little more time and he will beat them all; application is his stronghold! Next is Mr. Mills, in Dress Goods. Next is Cloaks, of which the Baronet has also charge—CRAWFORD'S People make two separate and distinct departments of the Suits and Cloaks; and next comes Millinery (Mr. Wachtel), who will foot up in the two seasons $150,000 in millinery alone. And so on, down the gamut, to the end of the 62 separate and distinct shops or stores, all belonging to the one firm!!

FUEL OIL TWO FOR FIVE CENTS

Extraordinary Low Price Per Barrel May Lead to Many Beaumont Consolidations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 12.—Ex-Gov. J. S. Hogg says the fuel oil is selling at Beaumont as low as 2½ cents per barrel. These low prices are made by small independent companies which own one or two producing wells, but are without sufficient capital to put in transportation facilities for their product.

This big cut in prices has had a demoralizing effect upon the prices established by the larger companies operating in the new field, and efforts have been renewed looking to the amalgamating of several small producers into one concern, which can thereby command the necessary capital to build pipe lines, tank cars, etc. If the Texas anti-trust law can be got around this consolidation of the smaller concerns will be effected.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MISS STONE

DATE AT MACEDONIAN VILLAGE BELIEVED MISLEADING.

THE CAPTIVE IS DEPRESSED

Bulgaria Said to Be Shadowing the Messengers Who Are Conducting the Negotiations.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 12.—Another letter from Miss Ellen M. Stone, the captive missionary, has been received here. It bears the date of a village in Macedonia, but it is not believed that the brigands have taken their prisoners across the Turkish frontier. The theory is that they caused the letter to bear the date it has in order to make it appear that they are further off than they really are.

Owing to the frequent change of hiding place, the two women attendants who waited upon Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka have been withdrawn.

Miss Stone does not complain, though the sufferings of the captives must be severe. But the tone of the letter shows that Miss Stone's naturally high spirits are depressed, and that her nerves have become affected by captivity and continual moving about.

She writes that she is reassured by the earnest efforts made to secure release, and she hopes for the best.

It is asserted here that the Bulgarian government is shadowing the emissaries who are conducting the negotiations to end the painful suspense.

A large number of missionaries from all parts of Turkey, Bulgaria and Macedonia met yesterday at Uphilippopolis, eastern Roumelia, at the opening of a new American Protestant church. Their hopes of receiving Miss Stone were disappointed.

TWENTY GIRLS IN ONE BRASS BAND

ONLY THE MANAGER IS A MAN AND HIS NAME IS HORN.

ONE OF CHICAGO'S IDEAS

The Combination Expects to Play Against the Feminine Musicians of Boston and San Jose, Cal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Chicago now has a brass band composed of 20 women. There is not a man in the organization. There are in the United States only two other brass bands composed wholly of women, one in Boston and the other in San Jose, Cal. The Chicago band will challenge these organizations to play for a prize. There are several women's orchestras and many women cornet and trombone soloists, but the only three bands in which everything, from the clarinet to the big bass drum and bass horn, are played by women.

The organizer of petticoats' band is Charles S. Horn. The organization is the result of several months' work, and is expected to make a national reputation for itself when it has been trained thoroughly. During the winter months the women will meet for rehearsal weekly, and will give a few concerts in the small towns near Chicago. With this training it is believed the players will soon be in condition to compete with the veteran members of the older bands of the country.

Uniforms have not been decided on yet, but it is probable that they will be distinctively feminine and not savor of the "emancipated" woman's dress in any detail. The members of the band are not professional musicians in any sense of the word. With scarcely an exception each one is a home girl and knows the ins and outs of cooking and mending as well as her great-grandmother.

But while the band is purely amateur and composed of girls domestic in their training and attainments, it is composed of good musicians. The nucleus of the novel organization was found in the suburb Barrington, where Prof. Horn has several enthusiastic students on the cornet. The band, however, will be known as a strictly Chicago organization from now on.

If you will but listen to your friends and neighbors, they will tell you how the pains and aches of a bad back, the annoyance of urinary troubles, the nervousness, the restlessness that come from kidney ills, can be relieved and cured. Read what one St. Louis citizen says:

Mr. Albert Frank, journeyman tinner of 408 Clark avenue, says: "Since I was 22 years of age I have been subject to attacks of kidney complaint. They mostly occurred in winter or during inclement weather, when I was always sure to catch cold it settled in my loins. I have been so bad that I could not work and hardly get up or down, and every move I made which brought a strain on the muscles of the back meant severe torture. In addition to the above, acute trouble with the kidney secretions, existed. When I went to the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.'s for Doan's Kidney Pills I was suffering. I don't know whether the treatment cured that particular attack or whether it disappeared mysteriously like others had before, but I do know, since I stopped the treatment there has not been a symptom of a recurrence."
